One Is Killed, Six Wounded In Mine Region

Governor Sends Tanks, Machine-

TROOPER SHOT
Kentucky National Guard
Captain Gets Bullet
In Chest

Harlan, Ky.—(P)—One miner was shot fatally and four other men, including a national guard officer, were wounded at a Harlan mine early today and a few hours later a union miner and his mother were wounded on the streets of Harlan by the guardsmen.

CHANDLER ACTS

Governor A. B. Chandler of Kentucky today ordered two tanks and a number of machine-gun units into Harlan county today, as the result of violence, in which one miner was slain and six other persons were wounded.

Governor A. B. Chandler, at Ashland on a tour of inspection of the eastern Kentucky mountain flood area, ordered two tanks and a number of machine-gun units into Harlan county today, as the result of violence, in which one miner was slain and six other persons were wounded.

The governor said two additional companies of guardsmen already were on their way to reinforce the approximately 300 militiamen on duty here.

Dock Caldwell, 31, of Wilson Berger, died of wounds received at the Mahan-Ellison mine on Catron's creek, five miles west of here, in an exchange of gunfire between pickets and national guardsmen.

Captain John Hanberry of Hopkinsville, commanding the troops at the mine, was wounded seriously. He was shot through the chest.

Others wounded at the mine: Dan Noe, miner, shot through the abdomen.

Noble Bowman, 29, miner, shot in right side.

John Kennedy, miner.

Miner, Mother Wounded
Hubert Green, who identified himself as a union miner of High Splint, had his scalp grazed by a bullet while his mother, Mrs. Kizzie Green, was struck on the leg when guardsmen doing police duty opened fire as troops marched through the streets of Harlan bringing in approximately 250 persons arrested in the disorders at Mahan-Ellison mine.

Green said he was standing watching the marching men when a guardsman shoved him back. "I grabbed his gun," Green said, "because I was afraid he would shoot me."

Captain Ben Herndon of Barbourville, a national guard officer, said the troops fired when Green "attempted to wrest a rifle away from a soldier."

Those arrested at the trouble center on Catron's creek were placed in the county jail and a column of troops surrounded the building.

No charges were placed against them immediately.

Describes Shooting
Captain Herndon, who was sent to investigate the clash at the mine, said the shooting started when Captain Hanberry rushed to a car carrying him to the pit as pickets attempted to pull out one of the men in the car.

Captain Herndon said Captain Hanberry was shot down as he approached and while on the ground the officer pulled his revolver and shot into the picket group. The soldiers and pickets then exchanged more shots. Captain Herndon said.

Private W. T. Macon of the troops at the mine told of being hit on the head with coal and struck over the eye with a steel bar by pickets.

Major Fred Staples, who rushed to the scene of the trouble, said warrants would be issued for George Titter, secretary-treasurer of the Harlan district of the United Mine Workers (CIO) and his wife, charging them with being accessories to the shooting. They were arrested at the mine.

The major said Mrs. Titter was arrested when two members of the picket line attempted to jump into her automobile in an effort to leave.

Tax-Exemption Issue Not Up This Session

House Committee Votes
To Sidetrack Question
Until Next Term

TIME TOO SHORT
Subcommittee Expected To Make Study During Recess

Washington.—(P)—The house ways and means committee voted today to sidetrack until next session legislation to prohibit future issuance of tax-exempt securities and to reduce surtaxes on individual incomes in the higher brackets.

The treasury department had recommended a ban on future tax exemptions on the ground that they tended to deprive industry of much-needed investment capital and interfered with the government's tax system. Treasury officials explained that while surtaxes on individual incomes ranged as high as 70 per cent, investors were inclined to put their money in tax-exempt bonds rather than risk it in venturesome enterprises.

Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) said the committee felt there was too little time left before adjournment to attempt passage of the legislation at this session.

The committee's action eliminated another possible barrier to adjournment.

Study Planned
Doughton said the question was referred to the tax subcommittee for study during the recess in connection with its consideration of the administration's proposals for thorough revision of the tax structure next year.

State and local governments fought the proposed elimination of tax-exempt securities.

Congressional leaders pressed forward with other work remaining to be done before adjournment while they watched the White House for signs of what President Roosevelt intended to do about neutrality legislation, which the senate foreign relations committee voted yesterday to shelve for this session.

Administration acceptance of this decision would leave the $2,800,000,000 lending program as the only major issue for action before the final gavel falls. But should Mr. Roosevelt decide to wage a vigorous campaign for neutrality revision, early adjournment prospects would vanish and congress might stay here wrangling until autumn.

Seeks Changes In Pay-Hour Act

Hawks Declares He Will 'Continue Forcing
The Issue'

Washington.—(P)—Representative Hawks (R-Wis.) says he will "continue forcing the issue" in congress for amendments to the wages and hours act in the face of possible congressional adjournment.

Asserting that recent rulings of Administrator Andrews "clearly indicate his opposition to any reasonable changes" in the act, Hawks issued a statement which declared a need for action by congress.

"If there are no changes in the act before adjournment, the responsibility for the very bad rulings of Andrews rests entirely with the New Deal," he said.

"I am perfectly willing to stay in session all year if necessary to effect those changes."

"Andrews' attitude should make every member of congress determine to take definite action to amend the act as it affects agricultural industries, small telephone companies, small newspapers and many other related industries."

Ammon Can't Drop Suits Against Two County Farmers

Has No Choice but to Enforce Law in Rohan,
Klitzke Cases, He Says

Madison.—(P)—Ralph E. Ammon, director of the department of agriculture and markets, declared today the department has no authority to comply with a request that it drop court actions against two Outagamie county farmers charged with violating the milk price control law.

Ammon disclosed he had received a letter from H. M. Culbertson of Medina, suggesting that he withdraw the complaint against William Rohan of Kaukauna and Walter Klitzke of Appleton and substitute a public hearing at Appleton on the milk control question.

Rohan and Klitzke, who operate farms on the outskirts of their respective cities, were charged with selling milk below prices fixed for the Appleton regulated market.

"Only the legislature has the authority to change the milk control law," Ammon said. "As long as it remains a law, I have an obligation to the people of the state of Wisconsin to enforce it to the best of my ability."

Ammon said a public hearing at Appleton would have no legal status. He added:

"It seems difficult to make clear to the farmers that the department of agriculture does not make laws and that when farmers violate the milk control law they are not defying the department of agriculture but are defying the people of the state of Wisconsin, who, through their legislators in general assembly, have enacted the milk control law for three previous sessions."

Band Wins First Place at Parley

Appleton Elks Musicians Take National Honors at St. Louis

The Appleton Elks band won national honors Tuesday when it placed first in Class B competition with 25 bands at the national convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks at St. Louis, Mo., according to A. W. Parnell, executive ruler of the Appleton lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Parnell are in St. Louis.

The forty musicians, led by O. J. Thompson, director, left Monday morning in two special cars and will return to Appleton Thursday. The unit won first place in state competition last year and competed in a concert Tuesday night. The band will compete in a parade to-night.

Members of the band are Philip Rutchinson, Roman VanThiel, Clifford Hutchinson, Herbert Lutz, Thompson, Henry S. Griesbach, M. A. Herberg, L. A. McIntire, George Ackor, George Adelin, Clinton Reed, Jack Pagel, Gene Winn, Carl Roehl, G. W. Perry, G. A. Doersch, H. W. Acker, Harry Beck, Arthur Demard, Edmund Martz, Harold Peterson, Peter Hyde, Earl Lipske, Edward Steenis, John Vandenberg, Tony Vandenberg, and John Hancock. Appleton: Dollie Steenis, drum major; Appleton: Harold Blanshan, Seymour; and John Broucheck, Kaukauna.

Suspect Arrested on Auto Theft Charges

Ashland.—(P)—Sheriff Lyle Freeman, after a five-hour automobile chase through a section of the wild country in which Ray Olson recently played hide and seek with possums, arrested Joseph Deloney on car theft charges late yesterday.

Freeman finally captured the 26-year-old Odanah resident at Raddison, near Hayward.

The sheriff took up the chase after Ann Beven, Odanah Indian nurse, complained that Deloney had robbed her of her purse, watch and automobile. Miss Beven said Deloney had asked her to go with him to High Bridge to attend a sick relative. About eight miles out of town, she added, Deloney covered her with a pistol, took her valuables and fled in her car.

Add 80 Million Yearly to Age Pension Funds

Senate Gives Approval to Proposal by Vote
Of 43 to 35

GAIN FOR STATES
Would Provide Added Money for Payments
Up to $15

Washington.—(P)—The senate approved today, 43 to 35, a proposal to increase the federal outlay for old age assistance by $80,000,000 a year.

The proposal was submitted by Senator Connally (D-Texas) during senate consideration of house-approved amendments to the social security act.

It would require the government to provide $2 for every $1 contributed by the states up to a maximum monthly old age payment of $45. Between $15 and a maximum of $150 the government would match state funds dollar for dollar.

Connally estimated the plan would cost an additional $80,000,000 annually.

At present the government matches state contributions on a 50-50 basis up to a maximum pension of $30 a month.

House Must Act
Under the Connally proposal, which still must be acted on by the house, the federal government would put up a maximum of $10 a month on the two-to-one basis and the states would put up $5.

If a state wanted to pay a $25 monthly pension, for instance, the government would put up the $10 on $5 and the rest on a 50-50 basis. The state cost thus would be $10.

Connally told the senate his proposal would benefit poor states paying small old age assistance benefits but that the $2-to-$1 plan "would cause absolutely no discrimination between the poor and the rich states."

Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said he opposed the plan because it would be "the first step toward placing the entire old age assistance burden on the federal government."

"That," he added, "would be the Townsend plan."

The vote by which the senate accepted the proposal to increase federal old age assistance payments included:

For the increase, LaFollette, (Wis.), Vandenberg, (Mich.), Senator Brown of Michigan was not listed as voting.

Nab 4th Member Of Bandit Gang

Bank Holdup Suspect Arrested by Federal Agents Near St. Paul

St. Paul.—(P)—Robert Hendon, F. B. I. agent in St. Paul, announced late yesterday that Edward Richard Mrozick, 30, fourth member of the notorious Cream Can bandit gang, was caught at a Lake Vadnais tavern, about five miles north of St. Paul.

Hendon said the F. B. I. men, who were accompanied by a state crime bureau agent, also seized Eddie LaSalle, proprietor of the place. Both Mrozick and LaSalle were held without charge.

Hendon said Mrozick was unarmed and surrendered without resistance.

The other three members of the gang, which was trapped while raiding the Sargeant, Minn. State bank early in the morning of May 17, have been in the Ramsey county jail here since their capture shortly afterward.

The desperadoes, long sought for burglaries of banks and other establishments in Minnesota and surrounding states, got their gang name because they used cream cans to carry water to cool safe drilling tools.

Attorney Believes Slaying Suspect Is
'Victim of Illusion'

Cleveland.—(P)—Frank Dolezal, Cleveland killer in one of Cleveland's dozen "torso murder" decapitations, appears to be a "victim of illusion," his attorney asserted today.

Fred P. Soakup, the lawyer, said after talking with Dolezal that he found him "more or less confused." Soakup also contended the state had "no case at all" against the 32-year-old bricklayer, who in a confession announced by Sheriff Martin J. O'Donnell said he killed Mrs. Florence Pollito in an argument over money after she threatened him with a butcher-knife.

Mrs. Pollito, found dead in January, 1936, was the third of the 12 "torso murder" victims. Coroner Samuel R. Gerber for months has attributed all 12 killings to one person, in view of similarities in expert dismemberment.

$18,800,000 Tax Measure Advanced In State Assembly

Administration Takes Firm
Stand Against Modifying
Hour Provisions for WPA

Washington.—(P)—The administration's strength appeared today to be aligned solidly against any modification of the new law requiring WPA employees to work 130 hours a month.

President Roosevelt told reporters yesterday he thought the administration would stick to the existing statute.

Officials of A. F. of L. building trades unions, seeking to restore the prevailing wage hourly rates on WPA projects, said they had received no encouragement from Democratic Leader Rayburn.

Bills have been offered to carry out this revision, but Rayburn said the unions would have difficulty in obtaining action on them before adjournment.

WPA workers on strike in an attempt to persuade congress to change the law faced a deadline set by Colonel F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, who ordered dismissal of those who stay away from their jobs five consecutive working days.

Justice Bureau May Act
As the deadline was reached for many of the strikers, there were these developments:

Indications were the justice department would invoke penal provisions of the new relief act against WPA strikers attempting by force or threats to keep other relief workers from their jobs.

Three United States marshals stood guard over a WPA project in Minneapolis from which a group of demonstrators yesterday ousted workers with cries of "quit work."

Attorney General Murphy said the bureau of investigation was going into the Minneapolis situation to determine whether violations of federal criminal statutes were involved.

Federation Meeting
The A. F. of L. called in the spokesmen of its affiliated unions to determine in an open policy conference how far it should press congress for revision of the law.

At the conference, William Green, president of the A. F. of L., told leaders that the remedy for the "spontaneous" protest against WPA hourly wage cuts "lies with congress rather than through strikes on WPA projects."

FLANNER'S APPEAL
Madison.—(P)—State WPA Administrator Philip D. Flanner appealed to all strikers on WPA projects today to go back to work and await potential action by congress on the controversial 130 hours a month law.

Flanner said that in stopping projects, strikers had accomplished all they could expect by focusing congressional attention "to the conditions under which the WPA must operate by law."

Joshua Johns Named To House Committee
On Rivers, Harbors

Washington.—(P)—The house of representatives today approved the appointment of Congressman Joshua L. Johns, Algoma Republican, to the house rivers and harbors committee to succeed the late congressman Harry W. Griswold, West Salem Republican.

Congressman Johns resigned his place on the committee on war claims to take the new appointment.

He remains on the committees on territories and on education.

Senate Adjourns Shortly

Bill Would Leave
Budget $8,500,000
Under Needs
HAS HEIL'S O. K.

Republicans on Record
Against Diversion Of Road Funds

Madison.—(P)—An administration supported tax bill raising $18,800,000 of additional revenue for the next two years, and leaving the state budget temporarily out of balance by approximately $8,500,000, received preliminary approval in the assembly today.

The house engrossed the bill 55 to 40, putting it beyond the amendable stage, and on motion of Assemblyman Frank Graess (R) Sturgeon Bay, ordered it up for passage at 9 o'clock Friday morning. Later it must go to the senate.

In line with the recommendation of the Republican party caucus last night, all plans for diversion of highway funds for general state purposes were dropped through adoption of an amendment by Assemblyman Anthony Gruszka (R) Mosinee.

This reduced the estimated yield to the general fund by $7,500,000 and was in addition to a potential deficit of $1,000,000 which represented the excess of appropriations over the amount of returns planned under the original bill.

Amendment Beaten
Although administration lines generally held intact, the Republican leadership had few uncomfortable moments when the indicated it might eliminate the proposed 2-cents tax on cigarettes.

Since the cigarette tax was estimated to produce $6,000,000 for the biennium, abandonment of the levy would have added that much more to the deficit.

With Governor Heil's secretaries, Charles McKeown and Elmer Barlow looking on, Republican leaders rallied their forces and defeated the amendment of Assemblyman Maurice Fitzsimons (D) Fond du Lac, to remove the cigarette tax.

The revenue measure originally called for $26,300,000 as compared with $27,400,000 of additional taxes required under the state budget that has been adopted.

After rejecting them, the house adopted two changes. One would substitute increases in beer and liquor wholesale permits for proposed boosts in the taxes on light wines. Another would levy a $25 fee on coin operated amusement devices.

Buckman, George Refused Paroles

Ineligible Because They Face Added Charges
After Release

Madison.—(P)—The state board of control has denied paroles to B. E. Buckman and Louis C. George, who served one to three year terms at Waupun for violation of state securities laws, because of detainers filed by federal and Manitowish county authorities.

Frank C. Klode, chairman, said the board refused to grant their release following hearings at the state prison Monday because of a long standing rule that prisoners who face further charges upon release cannot be paroled.

Buckman and George headed a Madison securities firm which was dissolved in bankruptcy proceedings. They were sentenced in Milwaukee June 14, 1938, along with the firm's secretary, E. C. Holt, who was released from state prison last May after serving one year.

Holt is free under bond on charges filed against the Buckman company officials in Manitowish.

Senate Adjourns Shortly
After Convening; Majority
Suffers Two Quick Defeats

Madison.—(P)—Aroused by two defeats in rapid succession, administration leaders forced adjournment of the state senate today 45 minutes after it convened.

Floor Leader Coakley (R) Beloit, irritated by successful Progressive moves referring back to committee the Thomson welfare bill and halting debate on the board of review proposal, was supported in his adjournment motion 16 to 15.

The senate apparently was in an unpleasant mood when without debate it shouted down an assembly resolution objecting to appointment of legislators to state office during their terms. Only one voice was heard in its favor.

Then, by a vote of 16 to 15, with several Republicans and Democrats joining with Progressives, the senate sent to the committee on education and public welfare Speaker Thomson's bill creating a

Couple Rescued After Being Held 125 Feet Above Ground When Wire Catches Parachute

New York.—(P)—A pleasure-seeking couple who dangled for five hours on a board seat 125 feet above ground at the world's fair parachute jump were rescued at dawn today after two daring mechanics cut the jammed guide wire which held them captive.

The aerial prisoners were Mr. and Mrs. J. Cornelius Rathborne, 32 and 25 respectively, socially prominent couple of Westbury, Long Island.

Their parachute, one of 11 in operation from the 250-foot tower, stuck at 9:25 p. m. (C.S.T.) last night.

They finally were rescued at 2:39 a. m. (C.S.T.) after mechanics attached a rope to the parachute, cut the jammed cable, and lowered the chute a few feet at a time, on the three remaining cables into a spread police net.

Roosevelt Says McNutt Choice Was Not Politics

Quick Confirmation Pre- dicted for Federal Sec- urity Post Nominee

Washington.—President Roosevelt's insistence that administrative ability instead of politics dictated selection of Paul V. McNutt as federal security administrator failed to stop talk in political circles today that the appointment had increased the Indianan's chances for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Senator Minton (D-Ind.), New Deal supporter, declared after the president had discussed the "background" of the appointment at a press conference.

"I think McNutt will do a job that will be so satisfactory the Democrats won't want anyone else."

A highly-placed Democratic senator of the "old-line" school, who asked not to be quoted by name, said he thought McNutt would be "satisfactory to the anti-Roosevelt Democrats."

McNutt has said he would withdraw if Mr. Roosevelt runs again, but added he saw no reason for calling off friends working for his nomination.

Predict Confirmation

His appointment to the $12,000 security job — he now is getting $18,000 as high commissioner to the Philippines — was on the senate calendar today, with administration leaders predicting quick confirmation.

Acting with unusual speed, Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) of the senate finance committee polled the committee members yesterday a few hours after the nomination had been received from the White House. He found them unanimous in approving it.

Meanwhile, politicians debated whether the president, in naming McNutt to a position with supervision over thousands of federal employees in every state and millions of dollars in appropriations and grants, had given him a free hand to campaign for the presidential nomination on the side.

The president told reporters yesterday there was no mention of McNutt's candidacy at the conferences at which the appointment was offered and accepted.

Friends' Statement

He added he did not believe McNutt would be found running for president any more than 10 or 15 others — including some cabinet members — who have been mentioned. What their friends do is something else, he said.

Friends of the Indianan, on the other hand, contended McNutt accepted only after Mr. Roosevelt advised him he would have no objection to his continuing to campaign for the presidential nomination. They said McNutt had extensive travel plans as administrator covering many states and affording an opportunity for many speeches and political contacts.

Some politicians said they understood McNutt's friends already were making soundings in Ohio.

Evidently anticipating questions, Mr. Roosevelt readily agreed to talk about the appointment at his press conference yesterday.

He advised reporters against getting out on a limb in interpreting it and said that while it might sound strange to some, there sometimes were other considerations than politics in making appointments.

Boom Thomson to Succeed Griswold

Republican Speaker of Assembly Suggested For Congressman

Madison.—Friends of Vernon Thomson, Republican speaker of the assembly, have launched an active campaign to promote the young Richland Center attorney as a candidate for congress in the third district.

A three man committee tossed Thomson's hat in the ring for the vacancy left by the death of Representative Harry Griswold, of West Salem.

Other candidates for the post, which would have to be filled at a special election to be called by Governor Hall have been active.

Assemblyman Rudolph Schlach, of LaCrosse and Senator E. J. Roethe, of Fennimore are expected to seek the Republican nomination. Former representative, Gardner Withrow, who was defeated last year by Griswold and Senator Oscar Paulsen have been mentioned for the Progressive nomination. Both are LaCrosse men.

The Thomson for Congress committee was organized by Joe Mason, the speaker's secretary, T. M. Pease and Guy Walton, all of Richland Center.

British Bomber Off For Newfoundland

Buffalo, N. Y.—A 15-ton patrol bombing plane, built for the British air ministry, took off from the Buffalo harbor at 5:34 a. m. (C. S. T.) today en route to Botwood, Newfoundland, on its 5,900-mile flight to England.

Pilot Russell Rogers pointed the nose of the huge twin-motored flying boat northward after an uneventful run of approximately 800 feet in the water and a preliminary 10-minute cruise to warm up the engines.

Plans Completed For Gatherings At Camp Cleghorn

Fortieth Session to be Conducted From July 16 to 23

Waupaca.—Programs for the annual Camp Cleghorn assembly's fortieth session, have been arranged for July 16 to 23, inclusive. A speaker from the Walther League of the North Wisconsin district which is now at Camp Cleghorn will be the speaker at the regular 11 o'clock Sunday morning service. At 8 o'clock Monday evening six communities will be represented on a miscellaneous program which will include home talent plays, musical numbers, readings, etc.

Stockholders of the Good Templars Training school will meet at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon or will send voting proxies to the secretary before noon of that day.

On July 19 the Wisconsin Grand Lodge, International Order of Good Templars, will meet at 10 o'clock in the morning. At 8 o'clock that evening, Dr. William C. F. Hayes, Madison, will deliver an address on "The Next Step in Control."

Temperance day will be observed Thursday, July 20, under the direction of Mrs. Emma Mielke of Ripon, with the following program: 10 o'clock a. m. devotion; 11 o'clock, literature, Mrs. Verda Martine, Madison; 11:30, S. T. I. Mrs. Marion Deuel, Waupaca; 1:30 p. m. song service; 2 o'clock, devotion, Mrs. J. Lansdowne, Madison; 2:15 p. m., publicity, motion pictures, state W. C. T. U.; 2:30 p. m. legislation, Mrs. C. Pasley, Madison; 3 o'clock, "What Is for Sigma? Wautoma Union." Special music will be provided for the day.

Friday, July 21, at 8 o'clock in the evening, J. F. Williams, Madison, will show motion pictures and on Sunday, July 23, at 11 o'clock in the morning the Rev. Arthur Johnson, pastor of the Stevens Point Methodist church, will preach in the auditorium.

About forty years ago, a group of leaders in temperance work who were members of the International Order of Good Templars, which at that time was strong in Wisconsin, met at Phantom Lake in Waukesha county, in a summer school or institute for study and training in temperance work.

Form Organization

This soon became an annual affair and a larger and more central was needed for these assemblies. A committee was selected, it organized and incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin, a non-profit cooperative stock company. After a survey of several locations, they decided to purchase a tract of 21 acres on the shores of Columbus lake, one of the new famous Chain o' Lakes near Waupaca.

The grounds were improved by the building of an auditorium, dining hall, store, sanitary water system and many recreational facilities, and some 36 cottages, privately owned by stockholders on lots leased to them by the corporation.

With the advent of the great popularity of the summer lyceum or chautauque circuits of 25 years ago, the association held annual two-week assemblies and put on some of the best programs in the midwest.

Gradually with the changing times the Chautauque programs faded out and were replaced by summer institutes held by many religious and commercial groups. These lasted from a couple of days to two or three weeks.

Many members of the association rent their cottages to private parties at such times as they do not wish to occupy them. The grounds are supervised at all times and no intoxicating liquors are allowed.

County Board Invited To Roadmen's Picnic

Members of the Outagamie county board and the county highway committee will be invited to the annual picnic of the county highway department employees, according to Bert Phillips, Kaukauna, chairman.

The picnic will be held at the Combined Locks park Sunday, July 22.

The I. Ramsdell Woman's Relief corps held its July meeting Tuesday afternoon at the village hall. Thirteen members were present. Doris Uttomark presided at the meeting. Thirteen sick calls were reported and $5 worth of relief given. Department general orders were read. Mrs. Mahel Forrest gave a report on the department convention at Eau Claire last month. She was the delegate from this corps. The next meeting will be held on the second Tuesday in August with Mesdames May Fox, Hattie Rogers and Lena Pockat as hostesses.

'Father' Divine May Get Another 'Heaven'

Newport, R. I.—Mrs. Angela Kaufman today gave her socially prominent neighbors 48 hours to decide whether they wanted to buy her mansion, "The Castles," for $40,000 or preferred to have her go ahead with a proposal to let "Father Divine take it for a heaven."

Mayor Henry S. Wheeler said Mrs. Kaufman, who was confined to bed for a few days on order of her physician, advised him of the proposal and said the little Harlem religious leader and 1,000 of his "angels" would be at the mansion next Monday if it had not been sold in the meantime.

Mayor Wheeler said he informed Mrs. Kaufman an offer to sell would have to be made through her attorney.

City Officials to Play Crack Girls' Team Sunday Night

City officials admittedly have stepped a bit out of their class and arranged a softball game with the Merchants crack girls' team, to be played at 8 o'clock Sunday night under lights at Spencer field.

Alderman McGillan, captain of the city officials team, said "we don't expect to win but we need the practice to prepare for our game with Fond du Lac officers at Spencer field July 30."

The girls team has been winning a fair percentage of its games throughout the Fox River valley and will be a tough team to beat. The officials have won three games and lost one to Fond du Lac last Sunday.

$35,000 Voted for School Purposes

Stoker and Band Uniforms Included in Total at Kimberly

Kimberly.—A tax levy of $35,000, as recommended by the auditing committee, was voted for the ensuing year at the annual meeting of School District No. 6 at the high school assembly room Monday evening. Last year the levy was $33,000. J. T. Doerflinger, clerk, explained that the levy would include a stoker for the school at an approximate cost of $1,500; uniforms for the high school band, at a cost of about $1,500; seats $225; typewriters $200, and $1,000 bond retirement.

Principal J. R. Gerrits said that the amount set for band uniforms would include 40 West Point complete band uniforms of wool whip cord, one drum major suit, band director's suit and two flags. The cost of each suit would be about $30 while the flags will cost about $75. Samples of the band uniforms were placed on display.

The voters approved continuance of the book rental system, adopted in 1931-32 which is $3 a student per year for high school and $2 per year for grades.

Financial statements covering the records of the clerk and treasurer by E. A. Dettman, Appleton, were approved. Mr. Dettman will again audit the books the coming year. The voters adopted a nine month school term as in previous years.

Salaries for the district officers were again fixed as follows: Clerk, $125; director, $50; and treasurer, $50. Joseph Dupont was reelected school treasurer for a three-year term. He received 101 votes out of 119.

The school board was given authority to borrow in case of emergency. Tuition rates were left at $72 per year for high school students and $36 per year for grades, pending any adjustments that may be made by the state legislature, now in session.

The voters allowed $300 to be transferred from the general fund to the sports activity work. The auditing committee appointed for the coming year includes Albert

Claim Proposed Political Bill Will Help 'Bosses'

New System of Selecting Candidates Discussed At Hearing

Madison.—(P)—The senate judiciary committee heard arguments on a bill proposing a modified form of the convention system of selecting political candidates yesterday.

Two speakers, both claiming first hand knowledge of politics for many years, disagreed over the merits of the open primary law passed in 1908 to end the convention system which was opposed by the late United States Senator Robert M. LaFollette here when he began his political career.

R. O. Wiperman of Milwaukee, claiming the existing setup had developed many weaknesses, supported the bill introduced by the committee which would allow parties to select all candidates from corner to United States senator by caucus of delegates.

Delegates would derive their authority after biennial spring elections in which the voters would have to declare their party affiliation. Independents could file nomination papers to oppose the organization candidates but with much less freedom than permitted under the present law.

The bill also would terminate legal sanction of party coalition, which permits one candidate to run in the primary on several different tickets. Voters would be compelled to declare their party affiliations in April and so abide in the September primaries.

A charge that the development of "bossism" would be aided if the proposed change became effective was made by Fred E. Gastrow, of Madison, representing the Wisconsin Federation of Labor.

Stating that it used to be the "follow with the most cigars and the most liquor in his buggy" who won the party nomination, Gastrow said he feared that the committee's bill would lead to a "return of the same evils."

Replying, Wiperman argued that "party bosses" are stronger under the present system than ever before and that the filing of nomination papers has been "turned into a farce." He said that candidates are forced to spend more money for their campaigns and that present day emphasis is upon the man running for office rather than the principles he espouses.

Other bills changing portions of the state's election machinery also were reviewed before the judiciary committee.

Education Board May Buy Stokers For High School

Coal Purchases Deferred While Committee In- vestigates Plan

The Appleton Board of Education at a meeting last night deferred action on coal bids for school buildings until the maintenance committee investigates the possibility of installing two stokers at the senior high school.

A representative of a stoker company outlined the saving that would be effected through the purchase of stokers and told the board the stokers would pay for themselves in less than three years.

The initial cost would be approximately $2,700 for two stokers completely installed, he said, and the saving on fuel would amount to about $1,600 per year.

Homer Benton maintained the stokers should not be purchased until the board is assured of a lower price per ton for stoker coal. The investigation was referred to the maintenance committee.

The Balliet Supply company offered the low proposal on all types of coal used by the board. The firm's prices follow: $8.00 per ton for Elkhorn egg coal; $8.00 per ton for Pocahontas screenings; $10.50 per ton for buckwheat coal; and $10.50 for Pocahontas egg coal. Sixteen companies offered bids.

Insurance Plan

The board authorized the maintenance committee to proceed with a new program of insurance on school buildings before the expiration date, Aug. 6.

The plan, recommended by the committee, assures 80 per cent coverage for all school buildings, excluding the senior high school, which already is covered. Windstorm insurance would be cancelled for it would be included in the extended coverage.

Myra Hagen, board secretary, reported the new plan would give the board additional insured value of $135,000 on the buildings with a net saving annually of $476.78 since the rate would be reduced. Another saving would be effected by a refund because of the cancellation of policies.

Painting Contracts

Thomas Feavel was given the contract for painting at Columbus school on his low bid of $74 while William Neils and Son offered low bids on painting at Washington, Richmond, Jefferson and Kinley schools. The firm's prices follow: Washington, $88; Richmond, $227; Jefferson, $494; and McKinley, $491.

Ryan and Long company, offering a low bid of $86, was given the contract to furnish a drinking fountain at Appleton High school while the Belling Roofing company awarded a contract to replace roof gutters at Franklin school at a cost of $700.

A request from the Knights of Columbus for the use of the senior high school auditorium Oct. 15 started the old argument about allowing outside interests the use of the school.

Board members argued the question briefly and then decided to wait for the return of Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, who has been working on the problem with Werner Witte, assistant high school principal.

The board authorized Earl DeLong, supervisor of the board's WPA project at the high school, to purchase sand as needed for the track now under construction. DeLong estimated he would need between 500 and 1,000 cubic yards.

The resignation of Joseph Shields as coach at Appleton High school for the last 13 years, was accepted by board members. Shields resigned to take a position with the Crowell Publishing company.

Recommend Seims

A letter from H. H. Helbie, high school principal, recommending Myron Seims, football coach, for the basketball coaching job, was read but no action was taken.

A petition for a fence around the Columbus school grounds on Oneida street was received and referred to the maintenance committee for investigation.

After Homer Benton recommended the annual publication of the public school financial statement in a daily newspaper, the board asked the secretary to get an opinion on whether publication is required from Harry P. Hoefel, city attorney.

Emmery Gruenke, who was elected to the board in the April election was seated at the meeting. He replaced C. K. Boyer.

Dr. George T. Hegner, Homer Benton and Mrs. Edward Lutz were

Waupaca Garden Club Has Meeting at Miner Lake

Waupaca.—The Waupaca Garden club met Monday afternoon at the summer home of Mrs. Charles Braman on Miner lake. The business session included a discussion of the summer flower show and then each club member was asked to tell of her "greatest pleasure and biggest problem in her garden."

The husbands were invited to the pot luck supper that followed the meeting and more than fifty were present. In the evening the Bramans entertained the crowd with movies taken when they attended the Kentucky derby in May. The tables used by the group for the supper were loaned by Christ Hydegard of Whispering Pines.

Mrs. Sim Shambau entertained at contract bridge Monday afternoon at Fern Terrace for her sister-in-law, Mrs. Fred Teuton of San Juan, Puerto Rico. Three tables were in play and honors were awarded. Mrs. Eve Perry, Milwaukee; Mrs. Hugh Olson, and the gift prize for Mrs. Teuton. Supper followed the game.

Guests of Mrs. Shambau were Mesdames Hugh Olson, David Shambau, S. W. Johnson, Carroll Cristy, W. F. Wildfang, Irving Hanson, Roy Barber, Ralph Farbridge, W. G. Rudersdorf and Miss Eva Perry.

The regular meeting of the Lions club, scheduled for Monday evening, was postponed to enable men whose wives are members of the Garden club to attend the pot luck supper planned for husbands by the Garden club. The first meeting of the new officers is set for July 17, presumably at some lake resort.

County Residents Get 3 Per Cent of Jobless Benefits

Payments Total $34,597 For First 3 Months Of 1939

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison.—Unemployment benefits paid to persons with Outagamie county addresses during the first three months of this year represented 3 per cent of the total amounts paid and aggregated $34,597, the state industrial commission reported today.

The number of Outagamie county beneficiaries represented 2.7 per cent of the total in the state.

During that period the unemployment compensation department sent checks to 4,206 Outagamie county beneficiaries. That number, however, does not represent total unemployment, since checks are sent over a period of weeks during unemployment of a worker.

The total payments for the state during the 3-month period was $1,208,722, considerably less than in previous months, when a top of a million dollars monthly had been reached. Increasing employment, and exhaustion of eligibility of those unemployed has resulted in the decrease of total payments.

Here are the figures on the total payments and the number of checks sent into other counties of the Appleton area as reported in a new statistical table prepared by the state department:

County	Total Number
Waupaca	$2,280 1,051
Calumet	1,729 191
Shawano	2,904 303
Manitowoc	33,042 3,345
Winnebago	28,970 3,662

A. C. Ewald Reelected Treasurer for 2 Years At Weyauwega

Weyauwega.—Joint School District No. 1 of the city and town of Weyauwega at the annual meeting Monday unanimously reelected A. C. Ewald to a term of two years for the office of school treasurer. Other officers are F. O. Prentice, director, and Mrs. Lillian Shreve, clerk.

A levy of $14,500 was voted to operate the school during the year 1939-40.

Weyauwega public school employs 14 teachers in the grades and high school.

Harold Clark, George Clason and Edward Kramer were appointed to audit the school books.

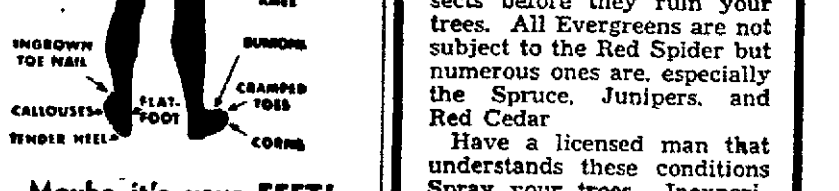

A son was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Alton Billington at the home of the Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holcomb.

Lawrence Scores Senators' Action On Neutrality Law

Ill-Feeling May Result on Part of Northern Neighbor, Canada

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—The senate foreign relations committee, composed of Republicans and Democrats, men of sincerity and high purpose, would be the last to do anything to involve the United States in a war or cause American lives to be lost overseas. Yet the action just taken in tying the hands of the executive branch of the government—the very department charged by the constitution with the conduct of foreign relations—may be the unwitting cause of American participation in a future war.

The senators have refused to allow the rights of international law to be exercised by the department of state in behalf of American citizens in time of war, and have insisted upon putting the American government in the position of favoring Germany and Italy and Japan in the event of an outbreak of war between the axis powers and Great Britain and France.

For the immediate effect of the refusal of the senators to repeal the "partiality" provisions of the existing neutrality law is to deny the British and French the expectation of being able to come to American shores and buy their supplies of airplanes, arms and munitions, even though the exporters sell at their own risk.

The action of the senators could easily be the basis for the provocation of ill-feeling between America and the European democracies and between the United States and her northern neighbor—Canada. President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull see the dangers in what the "isolationist" senators have done and are insistent that the present laws be changed, but it cannot be done evidently at the present session of congress. This may mean the calling of an extra session in the autumn.

Mr. Roosevelt may find in the interim that American public opinion

APPLETON BOOKS TARZAN FILM

Making his first appearance on the screen in three years, Johnny Weissmuller comes to the Appleton Theatre starting Saturday in his famous role of Tarzan, King of the Jungle, in the latest adventures of the Edgar Rice Burroughs hero, "TARZAN FINDS A SON." Maureen O'Sullivan is once again seen as his mate, Jane, and an exciting new character is introduced in the person of five-year-old John Sheffield as "Tarzan, Jr.," who emulates Weissmuller's athletic and underwater swimming feats.

"A Woman Is the Judge" will be shown on the same program, starring Frieda Inescort, Otto Kruger and Rochelle Hudson.

does not relish the idea of forbidding Great Britain and France to have American munitions in time of war, because that's what the action of the senate foreign relations committee means in the end.

For the German and Italian navies are not strong enough to come to America for war-time supplies, and so an embargo against selling to the so-called axis powers is meaningless. Hence the refusal of the senate foreign relations committee to allow the senate to vote on the proposition of removing restrictions from the neutrality laws is just the same as if the senators had said openly that they wanted to bring about a situation in which one side can benefit while the other cannot.

The senators of the "isolationist" bloc maintain, of course, that they do not wish to favor either side, but that is precisely the argument made by the pro-German senators between 1914 and 1917 when agitation for an embargo on arms and on credits was proved to have been inspired by German sources. German constituencies in America were in-

find it more convenient in the future to adopt the Japanese idea of "undeclared war." Proclamations of war may become obsolete on account of the action of the senate foreign relations committee. For there can be no doubt that the Japanese-Chinese conflict is as widespread and as vicious as any war in recent years. Yet it is an "undeclared war," and America today is supplying vital war materials to the Japanese, who have the navy to police the Pacific ocean and to blockade Chinese ports.

What the president and secretary of state wanted was an opportunity to return to international law, or at least to require by presidential order that Americans keep away from combat zones. The senate has abandoned the idea of legislating on these and other vital points and prefers to let American policy be governed by a law which allows the Japanese to be helped with American supplies in the case of an undeclared war with China, while the Germans and Italians are aided potentially as against the British and French in the case of any future war declared.

Clearly the difficulty of trying to conduct foreign relations in the senate of the United States is demonstrated once more, as it was in the post-war period, when America, by her clumsy policy, helped to break down the solidarity of Europe and particularly the German republic—out of which circumstances grew the opportunities of Hitlerism.

Board Refuses to Take Sewage From Buchholz District

Will Seek Council Approval of Action at July 19 Meeting

The Appleton Board of Public Works at a meeting Tuesday voted to recommend to the city council that Appleton deny sewer service to outlying sewer districts until all industrial connections in Appleton have been completed.

The board's decision came after the Buchholz Sanitary district, in the town of Harrison rejected proposed rates for sewer service and threatened to go to the public service commission to seek a reduction. The board contends that the city will be unable to determine whether the treatment plant's capacity is sufficient to permit connections to outlying districts until all industrial connections are made.

A letter informing Matt Rasmussen, chairman of the Buchholz Sanitary district, that the recommendation will be made at the July 19 meeting of the common council, was sent yesterday. The district is installing sewers and intending to connect to the Appleton disposal system. The work is being done under a WPA project.

The proposed rates for disposal of town of Harrison sewage are set by the board of public works and approved by the city council. The city asked $12 per year for residences, $18 per year for business places and $35 per year for taverns. The rates were rejected at a district meeting last week.

Mercury Climbs To 92 Degrees; Relief in Sight

Shows, Cooler Weather Expected Tonight Or Thursday

Relief from high humidity and the 92-degree temperature registered on the Post-Crescent thermometer early this afternoon was promised by the weatherman in the form of local thundershowers late tonight or Thursday and cooler temperatures Thursday.

Cloudy weather and warmer temperatures predicted for tonight already had set in this afternoon, conditions being on the uncomfortable side. A cold air mass was reported moving in from the north Pacific to break up the heat wave which blanketed the middle west with temperatures in the 100's.

Forecaster J. R. Lloyd of the United States weather bureau at Chicago said the area encompassed by the heat was one of the largest he ever had recorded.

Maximum and minimum temperatures in this vicinity during the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning were 90 degrees at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 68 degrees at 4 o'clock this morning, according to records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Highest and lowest temperatures in the nation yesterday were at Sioux City, Iowa, with 111 degrees and Sault St. Marie, Mich., with 52 degrees, according to the Associated Press.

Raymond Grunski Dies On Motor Trip to West

Raymond Grunski, 1730 N. Oneida street, died unexpectedly from a cerebral hemorrhage while driving through Lincoln, Neb., Tuesday evening. He was enroute to Los Angeles, Calif., with his sister, Miss Clara Grunski, who had been visiting in Neenah and Appleton, and Mrs. Jim Parks who visited relatives in Neenah.

Mr. Grunski turned the car into the curb and stopped before he died.

He was a former bus driver for the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

He was born March 24, 1902, at Neenah and lived in Appleton the last 13 years. He was a member of Zion Lutheran church.

Survivors are the widow, a daughter, Marilyn; two sons, Gerald, James, at home; a brother, Christ, Neenah; two sisters, Mrs. Marshall Asmus, Neenah; Miss Hazel Grunski, Chicago; Miss Clara Grunski, Los Angeles; Mrs. Charles Barr, Milwaukee.

Funeral services will be conducted at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Wichmann Funeral home by the Rev. Theodore Barth. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery. The body will be at the funeral home from 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon until time of funeral services.

46-Year-Old Woman Admits Posing as Man for 23 Years

Pasadena, Calif., (P)—A gray-haired, 46-year-old woman was jailed today after police claimed a confession to an amazing 23-year masquerade as a man, during which she worked for 20 years as a chauffeur and twice went through marriage ceremonies.

Questioned on a trifling traffic charge, "James W. Phipps" was quoted by Sgt. Samuel W. Bailey as admitting her real name was Minerva Phipps. She was booked on suspicion of false impersonation, a felony.

"I might as well admit it," Bailey said she told him, "I am a woman. I did it because I could not find a job as a woman. I have a deep voice. I was teased about it as a child and when I tried to find work prospective employers refused to hire me because they said I talked like a man."

Bailey said the Pittsburgh-born woman recounted a marriage in 1926 in Santa Barbara to Elsa Phipps, who died two years later. A second ceremony three years ago, the chauffeur was quoted as declaring, made her the "husband" of Mrs. Mabel Phipps of Los Angeles. They separated two weeks ago.

Amherst Farmer Killed in Crash

Carl Waller Victim in Collision Involving Waupaca Trucker

Carl Waller, 55, bachelor farmer of the town of Amherst, Portage county, was fatally injured when his farm truck and another driven by Cloyce Boutwell, 21, route 4, Waupaca, collided on a county trunk road a half mile north of Amherst village yesterday morning. Waller died about noon at St. Michael's hospital, Stevens Point.

Boutwell escaped injury but his nephew, Billy Falzob, 8 years old, who was riding with him, received head bruises.

Waller's truck overturned crosswise on the road and he was hurled to the highway. Waller was driving south and Boutwell north when the collision occurred.

WPA WORKERS BOLT PROJECTS FOR DEMONSTRATION
Shown here is a section of the crowd, estimated by police at 8,000, that massed before Detroit's city hall for a meeting protesting the new federal relief act. WPA officials said 90 per cent of the 35,000 workers in the city took part in the one-day demonstration.

Workmen Begin to Repair St. Mary School Building

Renovation and redecoration of the St. Mary Parochial school building was started Monday and trustees have advertised for prices on new seats for the pupils and desks for teachers.

The Mixon and St. Albin Construction company was awarded the contract for the general remodeling work, the Killoran Electric company received the contract for the electrical wiring and new fixtures and Leland Feavel was given the painting contract.

The work will include fireproofing the boiler room, complete electrical re-wiring, replacing classroom ceilings, painting inside and outside, replacing stair treads, window stripping and other repairs. New lighting fixtures will replace the outmoded ones.

British Press Emphasizes Light Side of U. S. News And Gives Wrong Impression

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York—(P)—The conclusion that "there is a disturbing thinness both of quantity and quality about the presentation of American news to the ordinary British reader," and that this situation should be remedied, is presented in an interesting report by the English organization known as "Pep" (political and economic planning).

Pep states the case mildly. A lot more bluntly did American Ambassador Kennedy put the thing the other day in a speech at Liverpool. Said he:

"I have from time to time urged that (British) newspaper publishers provide something about current affairs in America so that people in England would believe that something happens there besides gangster shootings and kidnappings."

Old, Old Story
This sparseness of American news and the consequent staggering ignorance of the British public about things in our country, is an old, old story. Many observers regard the position as due fundamentally to the fact that the average Briton is chiefly interested in his own country, and not much in other nations—barring prospective allies or enemies.

This was brought home forcibly to the writer several years ago by the late Lord Riddell, famous English publisher. Among his publications was the News of the World, a Sunday paper which purveyed to a vast clientele of some 3,000,000 many of what might be described as the juicier morsels of news along with some of the more weighty.

This great paper ran only about a column of American news weekly, and some of its one day asked Lord Riddell why he didn't print more from the United States. He said his readers didn't want it.

"If you will show me," he said, "how I can print one column more of American news and not lose 100,000 circulation, I'll publish it."

Lack Of U. S. Knowledge
The Yankee, viewing his country through the eyes of the average Englishman, gets a shock. He actually sees a land where Indians still roam the plains, and where the two-gun cow-boy writes his name with bullets on the bar-room floor.

While there is this lack of knowledge of America, coupled with a consequently natural lack of interest, many students of the problem believe that the English public would read more United States news if it were presented to them. With acquaintance the desire for American news presumably would grow.

The Pep survey says that American news appears to be given fairly adequate quantitative treatment in Great Britain.

"There seems, however," it continues, "to be more basis for the allegation that American news in the British press consists too much of human interest news, of eccentricities and so forth, and not enough of cultural, political, economic and other serious news."

Have Little Background
At the same time it points to "the difficulty of interpreting the complexity of American events to the British public" and believes this "links on the suggestion that the British press does not give enough background and interpretative news of America."

In the view of many observers that hits the nail on the head. The British public cannot be expected to understand American affairs, especially such complicated matters as politics, without any previous education. They have had little of it.

The American public knows British affairs and personalities pretty well. That is because of a long period of education in which our press has played the major role through constant interpretation.

The British public can arrive at an understanding of the United States only by this same process of education. That will take time.

Dr. MacLaren to Talk At Safety Exposition
Dr. J. B. MacLaren, Appleton, will appear on the program at the Paper and Pulp section of the twenty-eighth National Safety congress and exposition at Atlantic City, N. J., in October. The Appleton physician will give an address on "Back Injuries in the Paper Industry. Their Cause and Prevention From the Medical Director's Viewpoint," on Monday, Oct. 16.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

The Badger Printing company, Washington street, was visited yesterday afternoon by members of the Appleton Rotary club after the noon luncheon at the Conway hotel. The tour of inspection was conducted by Erik Madisen.

RECEIVES MAP SHOWING County Traffic Count
A map showing the traffic count on highways and town roads in Outagamie county has been received by Kenneth Corbett, Chamber of Commerce secretary, from W. D. Ryan, director of the state-wide highway planning survey. The map shows, by a traffic count over an average 24 hour period, the relative travel on highways leading into Appleton and on town roads in all sections of the county.

PARKER FINED
Mrs. Stanley Staidl, 628 S. Summit street, was fined $1 and costs for violating the city parking ordinance when a plea of guilty was entered for her in municipal court of Acting Municipal Judge Fred V. Heinemann yesterday.

CONTINUES CASE
Acting Municipal Judge Fred V. Heinemann this morning continued for one week the case in which Richard Miller, Appleton, is charged with driving a car without a transfer of title. Miller claimed he had sent the title in to the state.

Roosevelt Expected to Send Special Message to Congress Asking Action on Neutrality

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt soon may send a special message to congress, well-informed senators said today, backing up his appeals for neutrality legislation at this session.

The chief executive told reporters yesterday if a foreign war should break out before the present law was revised, congress would find it extremely difficult to take such action. He spoke shortly after the senate foreign relations committee voted 12 to 11 to defer the neutrality problem until the next session.

In making it clear the administration would continue to push for immediate consideration Mr. Roosevelt endorsed the six-point peace program advocated by Secretary Hull earlier in the day.

This program would retain the munitions board, bar American ships from combat zones, require transfer of title on goods sold to belligerents before shipment, continue restrictions on loans and credits to warring nations, and regulate collection of funds for belligerents.

Thus it would abandon the present arms embargo, which the house recently voted to retain in modified form.

Mr. Roosevelt took up the six points one by one and, in a serious manner emphasized the lack of existing law to achieve their objectives. Present law, he said, provides for the munitions board, but does not cover the other points.

State department officials said later the president had been misinformed in two instances. The law, they said, does ban credits to belligerents and prohibits raising funds in the United States for them.

Informal conferences of senate leaders disclosed any notion to take the neutrality question out of the hands of the foreign relations committee and bring it directly to the senate probably would be defeated.

The effort to take up the issue at once lost in the committee yesterday when Senators George (D-Ga.) and Lillette (D-Iowa), both opposed by the administration in their campaigns for re-election last year, sided with the opposition.

Opponents have contended the administration's program to eliminate the arms embargo would favor one set of European nations against another, by permitting those who control the seas to obtain supplies here.

The situation was complicated by a decision of the foreign relations committee to consider Friday a resolution of Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) to curtail exports to Japan.

Death Penalty Not Sought in Illinois Trial for Murder

Carroll, Ill.—(P)—The state, having indicated it would waive a demand for the death penalty, today called Mrs. Scott, 29-year-old farmhand, in the murder trial of Mrs. Alice Austin and her neighbor, Theodore Simmons.

State's Attorney Clarence E. Soward of Hardin county made no mention of capital punishment in his opening statements, nor did State's Attorney Ivan A. Elliott, assisting Soward, when he questioned prospective jurors. Three persons, however, were dismissed when they announced opposition to the supreme penalty.

Scott, co-defendant who pleaded guilty to a charge of murder at Elizabethtown last Monday, was one of the state's chief witnesses. Another was Miss Larence McDowell, friend of Earl Austin, 46-year-old high school janitor and student who was killed last March 26 by the explosion of a charge of dynamite placed under the floorboards of his truck. Miss McDowell, 22, who was riding with Austin, was maimed.

Austin's 35-year-old wife and Simmons were arrested and charged with murder.

In his opening statement yesterday, State's Attorney Soward said the state would attempt to prove Mrs. Austin told an acquaintance, "I'm gonna blow up that truck and blow them both to hell." He declared the statement was made to a person who would be a witness at the trial.

Mrs. Austin, Soward said, also told another person "if he gets a divorce he will marry that other woman. I might as well get that government money ($10,000 in war risk insurance—Austin carried) as she."

Austin had filed a suit for divorce on grounds of desertion and his wife had filed a cross bill charging adultery. His death occurred one week before the divorce complaint was set for hearing.

State's Charges
Soward said the state also would attempt to prove that on the eve of the dynamiting, Mrs. Austin and her 30-year-old friend had gone to the home of neighbors to ask them to go to a theater in Eldorado; that Simmons left the home on the pretense of getting gasoline, picked up Scott, and drove to a cross road about five and one-half miles from Cave-in-Rock, where Austin had parked the truck.

There, the state's attorney declared, Scott tied the dynamite to the transmission and Simmons inspected the job.

James A. Watson said the defense would show Simmons had only 15 minutes to drive the distance to the parked truck, plant the dynamite and return to Cave-in-Rock as charged.

Jurors selected for the trial were: Walter Huber, oil station operator; Carson Hall, laborer; Arthur Yates, Clint Smith, Henry Questell, Jesse Oakley, B. S. Collins, school teacher; Ralph Hawthorne, restaurant employee, and Joe A. Maier, merchant.

The trial was brought here from Hardin county on a change of venue.

Milk Producers Ask Federal Quiz On Price-Fixing

Two Rivers Group Seeking Investigation of 'Every Phase'

Two Rivers—(P)—Milk producers and consumers of the Two Rivers neighborhood adopted a resolution last night calling for a federal grand jury investigation of "every phase of illegal milk price-fixing."

The resolution, adopted at a meeting of the milk producers and consumers council, was similar to that voted at a Green Bay meeting June 12. Approximately 800 attended last night's session.

Copies of the resolution are being sent to President Roosevelt, Attorney General Frank Murphy and Senator LaFollette.

It was announced that the council's organization work is going forward and that plans are being made to hold meetings in every county in the state.

The council hopes to obtain 1,000,000 signatures to petitions calling for a grand jury investigation.

Before moving adoption of the resolution, which he presented, Dr. W. C. Sullivan, former Kaukauna mayor, denounced what he termed the milk monopoly and assailed Governor Hill. The governor, he said, too often has been seen with heads of the monopoly.

Sullivan described the state department of agriculture and markets as "the Borden department of agriculture and markets which is 95 per cent markets and 5 per cent agriculture."

Sullivan characterized Joseph Lemberger, Mishicot farmer who has defied state price fixing regulations, as a modern Patrick Henry. Lemberger's action in selling milk at 8 cents a quart outside the Two Rivers city limits, Sullivan said, is a "modern Boston tea party" in which Lemberger is "dumping the milk monopoly into the Two Rivers harbor."

Sullivan called upon Manitowoc county to declare a holiday when Lemberger is called for trial and to hold a demonstration at the courthouse "not to try to influence the case but to express disapproval of totalitarian methods."

Rahmlow Herd Is Highest Producer In Testing Group

Cows Show 44.4-Pound Butterfat Average During Last Month

The Edward C. Rahmlow herd again took high honors in the Outagamie Dairy Herd Improvement association, No. 2, for June with an average of 1,314 pounds of milk testing 3.38 and containing 44.4 pounds of butterfat, according to Glenn Richmond, tester.

Arnold Ahmsan's herd was second with an average of 43.8 pounds of butterfat. The herds of Frank Drinks and William J. Griesbach were tied for third place with an average of 40.7 pounds of butterfat. Fifth place was taken by the Mrs. Charles Sambs herd with a 39.8-pound average, while the Al Smiths herd was sixth with an average of 39.7 pounds.

A cow in the William J. Griesbach herd took high individual honors by producing 2,160 pounds of milk containing 73.4 pounds of fat. Rahmlow had the second high fat with a cow in his herd showing 68.1 pounds of fat. Third was a cow in the Sambs herd with 65.3 pounds.

Following are owners and the number of cows producing 40 or more pounds of butterfat during the month: Edward C. Rahmlow 14, Mrs. Charles Sambs 12, Arnold Ahmsan 9, H. R. Barnard 9, Ben Bolinski 9, William J. Griesbach 7, Huebner Bros. 7, Edward Lemke 6, Louis Timm 6, Paul Ahmsan 5, Frank Drinks 5, George Retzlaff 5, Henry Haferbecker 4, Arnold Lemke 3, Julius Pohl 3, Loren Anderson 2, F. Diermer 2, E. Fertilizer Plots Show Soil Needs

Tests Being Conducted on Two Farms in Outagamie County

Finding that the fertility of their farms is gradually lowering from years of continuous farming, farmers in Outagamie and other Wisconsin counties are checking up on the fertility of their soils.

Following recommendations based on soil tests run by their county agents, farmers have set up fertilizer demonstrations to check the value of fertilizers. Already outstanding results have been noted on many of the plots. Farmers in Outagamie county who are running soil fertility demonstrations this year are Walter Long, route 1, Appleton, and the Guardian Angel boarding school, Oneida.

"Similar demonstration plots in 1938 and in previous years show that the soils of Wisconsin are becoming more deficient in their available supply of plant food," declares C. J. Chapman, extension specialist in soils at the college of agriculture, who is cooperating in the fertilizer trials. "Years of continuous cropping and the sale of farm products have lowered the general level of fertility to a point where now in many sections of the state serious conditions prevail. Farmers are having more and more difficulty in getting good stands of clover and alfalfa seedlings, and even where successful stands are established, yields of hay are low."

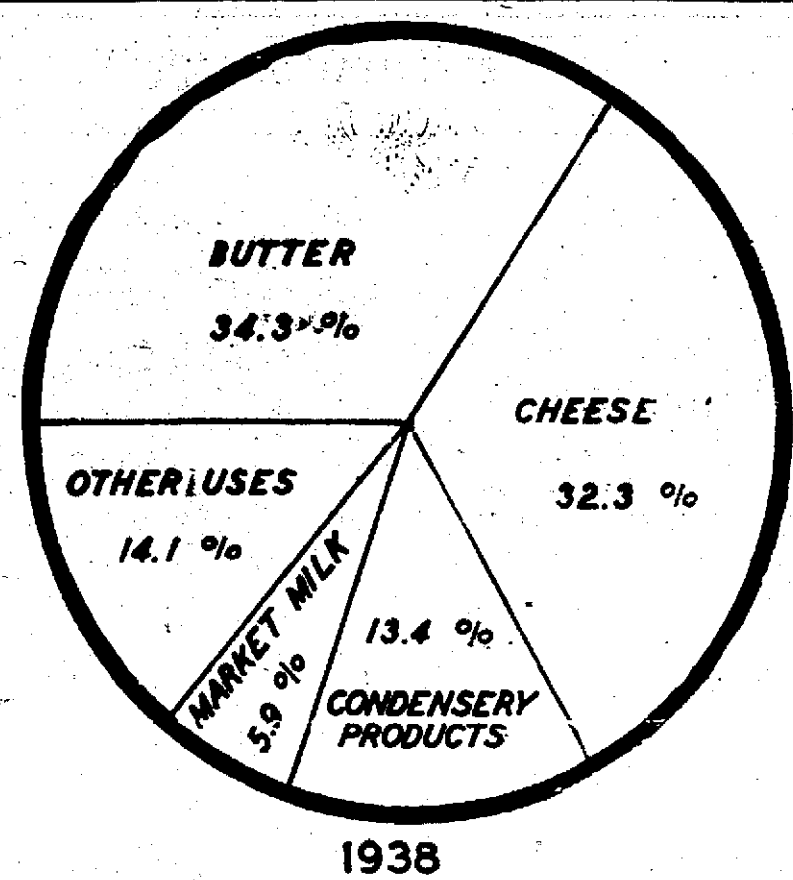

From the results of chemical tests of soil samples and the actual results of fertilizer trials, Chapman finds that from 85 per cent to 90 per cent of Wisconsin soils are lacking in phosphate while from 60 per cent to 70 per cent of the soils need potash treatment.

John Siegel Chosen School Treasurer at Combined Locks Meet

Combined Locks—At the annual school meeting at the schoolhouse Monday evening John Siegel was elected treasurer to take the place of Mrs. Charles Pein who filled the vacancy left by the death of her husband a few months ago. The clerk is Herman Janssen and the director is William Van Zeeland. The group voted for music instruction during the ensuing year.

Free textbooks will be issued as they had in the former years. Plans also were made to hold a parent and teacher meeting at the beginning of school in September. A committee was appointed consisting of Mrs. Sidney Wells, Mrs. Sylvester Vestegen and Mrs. Nick Lom, to see the parents and encourage them to attend these meetings. Other routine business was transacted.

UTILIZATION OF WISCONSIN MILK

More than a third of all Wisconsin's milk production last year went into butter, the above chart prepared by the crop reporting service shows. Almost as much went into cheese manufacturing outlets. Condensery products consumed almost 14 per cent, while miscellaneous channels accounted for another 14 per cent. Only about 6 per cent went into the milk market.

$600,000 Building Program of State Fair Nearing Completion

With its $600,000 building program nearing completion, and its appropriations for exhibitors' premium and entertainment increased, the Wisconsin State fair will offer the greatest exposition in its 89-year history, Aug. 19 to 27.

"In preparing for a great fair this year, we are merely fulfilling a pledge made in 1938," Ralph E. Ammon, director of the department of agriculture and fair manager, said today. "We promised that the success of the 1938 fair would be the gauge of the greatest of the eighty-ninth exposition. With a total attendance of 624,411, the 1938 fair was the greatest in the nation. Now we are able to make greater appropriations than ever — and as usual without taking one cent from the taxpayers."

Five new lannon stone barns costing $208,237 are the 1939 contribution that winds up the building program. Four of the barns replace ten wood horse barns that were razed last fall. Three of these barns are being built under one roof as a single unit 411 feet long and 70 feet wide. The unit will provide 250 single stalls and 40 box stalls for the exhibition of draft horses. Show horses will be kept in the fourth barn, which is 70 by 136 feet and will contain 46 box stalls.

Price of Milk for City Markets Has Minor Effect on Economic Position of Wisconsin Dairyman

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau — That the price of fluid milk sold to the city markets—subject of much discussion and agitation in Wisconsin farm circles in recent months—actually has a minor effect on the economic position of the Wisconsin dairyman was forcefully demonstrated today with figures by the Wisconsin crop reporting service showing Wisconsin's tremendous milk volume goes chiefly into butter and cheese channels.

More than a third of all Wisconsin's milk production in the record year of 1938 went into butter, it was shown.

Almost as much was sent into cheese manufacturing outlets, final statistics of 1938 production reveal. Condensery products consumed almost 14 per cent, while miscellaneous channels account for another 14 per cent.

Only about 6 per cent of all the milk produced on Wisconsin's thousands of dairy farms goes into market milk, the figures disclosed.

Butter, Cheese Prices

Therefore, the price of butter and cheese, of which Wisconsin produced more last year than in any other year of its existence, is more important in determining the ultimate prosperity of the Wisconsin milk farmer than the bottle price of the product which is delivered to the consumer's door.

About 3,835,000,000 pounds of milk—or more than 1,000 pounds per person in Wisconsin—set the state's all time high production of 365,215,000 pounds of Wisconsin cheese, according to Walter Ebling, agricultural statistician. About 2,961,000,000 pounds of milk went into the manufacture of American cheese alone, of which the state makes about half of the total manufactured in America.

Most of Wisconsin milk goes into creameries. Last year 4,062,000,000 pounds of milk were used to make 188,933,000 pounds of butter, and creamery production was 7.6 per cent higher than the level attained in 1937. The state usually ranks third in national butter production.

Condenseries also consumed a huge volume of milk. About 1,591,000,000 pounds were used to make 696,874,000 pounds of whole milk condensary products, principally evaporated milk.

Inspect Oats, Barley On Outagamie Farms

J. F. Magnus, Outagamie county agricultural agent, and Willis Holsten, college of agriculture, last week made a field inspection of oats and barley for certification. Samples will be taken in fall. Pure bred seed is developed at the college of agriculture and distributed to farmers. Seed that continues to pass the standard tests is sold as certified seed. Inspections were made at about 20 farms.

4-H Singing Group In State Contest

Nine Girls of Pleasant Corners Club to Compete at Madison

Plans for sending the Pleasant Corners 4-H club singing group to Madison Aug. 7 to 10 to represent Outagamie county in the state-wide singing contest for rural groups were made at the meeting of the 4-H club Monday night at the home of Norana Trauba, Greenville. The nine girls in the singing club won the county contest this spring.

J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent, and his daughter, Nanna, were guests Mr. Magnus spoke on exhibits and demonstrations. Another guest was Dorothy Braman, Medina. The entertainment committee included Beatrice Reis and Monica Jochman. The next meeting will be July 24.

The chicken dinner which South Greenville Grange will sponsor next Sunday was planned at the Grange meeting last Saturday night at the hall. A dance was planned also for about the middle of August.

Outagamie county recreational group provided the entertainment for the lecturer's hour at the meeting. Quiet games were played and folk dancing took place. The recreational group is planning a dance for July 26 at the Grange hall. A short play will be presented the same evening.

122 Million Pounds Of Butter Purchased By FSCC During Year

The department of agriculture today announced that the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation brought a total of about 122,000,000 pounds of surplus butter during the fiscal year which ended June 30. The purchases were made at a total cost of about $34,500,000 including handling charges.

The purchases included 26,000,000 pounds bought in butter markets, and about 96,000,000 pounds bought from the Dairy Products Marketing association out of the total of 114,000,000 pounds bought and stored under government loans by the DPMA during the 1938-39 season under the butter stabilization program.

The FSCC purchases were made with Section 32 funds allocated from customs receipts. In addition to purchase authorizations totalling 115,000,000 pounds previously announced, an increase in the authorization providing for additional purchases from DPMA on June 30 brought the total purchases by the FSCC up to 122,000,000 pounds for the fiscal year.

association, which is composed of eight regional dairy marketing organizations organized under government sponsorship, bought butter from the trade for resale later either to the trade or for personal improvement or to the FSCC for relief distribution. The DPMA purchases were made under a loan arrangement with the Commodity Credit corporation.

The butter bought by the FSCC is given to state welfare agencies for distribution to families on relief rolls. This distribution of butter during recent months has been at the rate of 10,000,000 to 13,000,000 pounds a month.

DON'T SCRATCH, SOOTHE THE IRRITATION

Quick relief from the maddening itch of eczema, psoriasis, poison ivy, and irritation about the rectum or personal parts is obtained by applying Resinol Ointment. Leave it on over night. It lessens the desire to scratch, and eases the irritation.

The soothing effect of Resinol takes the sting from the irritated places and makes you more comfortable. The skin heals sooner, too, with the help of Resinol, as its oily base holds the medication in active contact with the tortured parts.

For gentle cleansing of irritated skin, Resinol Soap is excellent because it has no excess of free alkali and is so refreshing. Many nurses suggest and use Resinol Ointment and Soap—why don't you try them?

Buy at any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 85, Baltimore, Md.

"STRIKING" AGAINST SANTA CLAUS

Our language needs a new word and needs it urgently.

We call the recent action of WPA workers a strike but it is no strike. A strike is considered a legitimate weapon of a worker because it may be used to injure the employer and through that injury bring him to terms.

But the strike of WPA workers is a godsend to their employer, the government. It saves it the money that it was, in most instances, needlessly paying out.

Moreover this sort of strike has always been considered, even in labor circles, nonpermissible although there may be no express law against it. Striking against the government is in itself a sort of revolt.

This practice was thoroughly discussed about 20 years ago this time when the Boston firemen and policemen struck for higher wages and the governor of Massachusetts, Calvin Coolidge, put everyone of them out of his job permanently for daring to actually raise his hand against that intangible and somewhat indefinable and yet powerful and essential thing known as the sovereignty of government. Mr. Coolidge's action was so popular the Republicans nominated him for vice-president in recognition of it and thus he subsequently became president.

But we live in a different time and under different conditions. The great war had brought us many extremely difficult problems and made our people restless and unreasonable but it had also developed a certain form of manhood that was its compensation. Today there is a feeling, at least among some WPA strikers, that weakness rules the roost and that a demonstration will bring the nation to its knees. It remains to be seen whether the administration has the courage to deal both temperately and forthrightly with a situation in which the strikers are so wholly in the wrong.

Congress has changed the hours of WPA workers. The change was not made at the suggestion of any political body but at the constant urging of WPA administrators who were trying desperately to get something of worth for the people out of their money and to bring something of order and justice in the employment of those without attachments.

One paragraph from the testimony of Col. Harrington before a congressional committee in which he dealt with a construction project in Pittsburgh may be an extreme instance but is claimed to be typical and at least will indicate the hopelessness of proceeding as in the past:

"Bricklayers are permitted to work only 48 1/2 hours per month while the hod carriers work 63 1/2 hours, the building-trade laborers 89 hours, and unskilled laborers 120 hours. On the same project a plumber is limited to 30 hours of work a month, while his helper must be scheduled for 7 1/2 hours of work. Compressor operators are limited to 56 1/2 hours per month while jackhammer operators are scheduled for 119 hours of work. It is obvious that schedules such as these render any practicable type of staggering of employment ineffective in producing efficient operations."

Under the congressional amendment WPA workers are to work 130 hours a month, slightly over five hours a day, in order to receive the average wages heretofore paid them. There will be eliminated consequently much of the flim-flam and jiggery whereby various minorities within the WPA sought to do just as little work as possible for just as high a wage as they could secure.

And since it has been notably demonstrated that where WPA has been devoted to construction jobs that could be compared to private ones, the former cost about four times as much as the latter, will it be considered an offense against freedom and manhood to bring something like fairness and efficiency into the system?

THE SOFT GEEZER AND THE BANDIT

Senator Barkley, for whose reelection the United States government spent over 50 million dollars in Kentucky, told a senate committee that we mustn't quit buying silver in Mexico else we would jeopardize the settlement for the old properties of American citizens taken over by the Mexican government.

The implication is that the American government will dilute its currency in order to give something to Mexico so that Mexico can pay a part of what it owes to American oil companies. And since this is the natural process of reasoning indulged in by the Roosevelt administration and which is slowly but steadily bringing us to the edge of the abyss it is worth while looking at several times. For it is another venture in indirection under the palpably erroneous idea that the best way to cure a sore is to dance around it or turn your back upon it.

Now, it so happens, that even if we follow this utterly preposterous system of international dealings we cannot arrive at the point at which we aim. The oil properties were taken over only a year ago last March. But we have been buying silver from Mexico steadily for six years. And all during those years Mexico was paying nothing to anyone, least of all to Americans. All that was accomplished by our years of foolish silver buying was the confiscation of more American property.

If it be conceded that Mexico may confiscate American oil wells without compensation then the loss, of course, must be that of the oil companies.

The administration in Washington is today so weak, so utterly spineless, and so completely wrapped up in beautiful phrases like Neighborly Policy and other unctious nonsense it is willing to even gut the treasury of the United States with nearly worthless and entirely needless silver and jeopardize the worth of the American dollar to hide its sins and its stains.

Mexico, like a smart gangster black-mailer, is working the administration for all there is in it. It knows that Washington, as presently constituted, dare not risk a showdown else what will become of all the syrup and honey used in those wonderful speeches made to old women who do not believe that life is real and earnest but can be conducted upon a policy of duplicity and sham?

GOVERNOR HEIL AND MARKETING MILK

In his gyrations and perambulations it appears that Governor Heil has put his finger upon one of the correct buzzers in relation to the marketing of milk.

The establishment of milk bars is a natural, legitimate and efficient means of bringing a great food product to the consumer. For the consumer will consume when the opportunity for consumption is made.

But marketing is not as easy as it may seem.

The proper marketing of milk upon a great scale which should begin in Wisconsin involves a mass of details and the employment of a system of courteous efficiency that must not be left to the mere bystander or volunteer, else it will fail.

To obtain results from the milk bars in this day of a streamlined nation they must be made attractive and inviting. The costumes of the employees should be just as attractive and just as inviting. The personnel must be trained to please the public.

So long as the prices are kept within moderation there is no need for non-profit companies or the sacrifice of individuals' time or effort.

Milk is today, as ever, the most popular of beverages.

People not only drink it because they like it but because they know they can't drink anything that is better for them. There is hardly a leader in business, commerce or industry in the state that would not go out of his way to further every effort at marketing this Wisconsin product so long as he sees that the plan is built by intelligence, fostered by sound principles of business, and not merely left to chance or luck.

To Governor Heil has come a great opportunity in this respect. He is reputed to be a good business man and will easily recognize therefore the essentials of a great and widespread undertaking from which sound possibilities may flow even long after he has passed from the earthly scene of action.

But haste must not surrender to flimsy plans, the advantage of the moment must not be embraced to the detriment of the building of a great structure.

Just as man's instinct is to live so his instinct is to live in healthy and wholesome fashion.

The purpose of the milk bar is to provide him handily and conveniently with milk when he is thirsty and would drink. But the milk bar is far from sufficient. It is not to be frowned at, because it will be helpful, but the major purpose must be to dispose of cheese and the sales of that product will answer quickly when the people learn to eat it more constantly. There are thus involved practical questions concerning its package and likewise its service in America in lieu of meat because it is a hardy food product and will sustain the worker at any back-breaking task.

Politics should not enter this picture at all. The matter involved is too serious. But as governor Mr. Heil occupies a splendid position of vantage. He will have occupied it successfully if he and his associates will map a steady plan and start building, brick upon brick, the way any structure must be built.

TRAVELERS ON ANCIENT HIGHWAYS

Travelers on ancient highways were often protected by a "blessing" placed upon the road and respected by persons dwelling along the route.

Tuberculosis occurs among all the races of the world and its ravages may be traced far back into history.

The first regular radio broadcasting in the United States was from a transmitter at the home of Dr. Frank Conrad at Pittsburgh, Pa.

One of New York's oldest private residences on Fifth Avenue below Central Park is that of General Cornelius Vanderbilt at 51st Street.

The assessed valuation of property in the United States is estimated by the Department of Commerce at 139 billion dollars.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Abbott and Costello are just as crazy as Olsen and Johnson, which is the highest form of flattery. After ten years of trimming the wicks of the kerosene circuits, these rasbals of repartee have finally come to Broadway in "Streets of Paris," and are socko. When one is socko one is a smasheroo and also a wow. Another generation would have referred to them as the cat's whiskers. It all adds up to terrific.

Lou Costello and Budd Abbott have been talking nonsense to each other for ten years, nine of them without much success. A chance to appear with Kate Smith gave them their introduction to America's air audience a year ago. Billy Rose introduced them to Broadway in the flesh shortly afterward. The insanity of their chatter clicked, and here they are with their name in lights, and earning enough money to rent a room every night and have steaks for dinner.

Both men are married. It happened rather quaintly. They were playing in Burlesque. One night after a performance they were wandering backstage and came upon two ladies of the ensemble bawling. It was one of those hair-pulling affairs which sometimes take place when two ladies cannot see eye to eye on some subject.

Costello leaped forward and held one of the girls. Abbott held the other. Both comedians purred soft peacemaking philosophies into the young ladies' ears, until everything was straightened out.

"Let us all go forth to a lunch wagon," said Abbott, "and partake of some rare delicacies—hamburgers with onions, let us say." The ladies acquiesced, rearranged their hair, and the four of them went to eat. Today one of them is Mrs. Costello and the other is Mrs. Abbott.

Costello, the clown of the combination, was a March 6, 1908 baby in Paterson, N. J. Abbott first heard the surf of life at Coney Island Oct. 2, 1900. They met ten years ago in Hollywood where Costello was trying rather weakly to make people believe he was funny, and where Abbott was working in a theatre box office.

No one has yet come forward with a properly descriptive name for the Abbott-Costello type of humor. It is low comedy, and people who remember the old days of burlesque will recognize it. It is a form of comedy predicated upon constant misunderstanding, and depends greatly for its effectiveness upon the straight man, Abbott.

Abbott's father for nearly a quarter of a century was an advance man for Ringling Brothers' circus. His son loves to tell the circus stories he heard from his father. One concerns the death of the famous circus elephant, Jumbo.

Abbott senior was present when that tragedy occurred. Jumbo had been unloaded from a railroad car. A locomotive was coming down another track. Jumbo, apparently believing it to be another elephant, moved toward it and crashed with great force into it. Even he could not budge a locomotive. He slumped slowly to the tracks, his skull fractured.

"My father," poured water into Jumbo's mouth," Abbott relates, "but it was no use. Jumbo was mortally injured, and an hour later he was dead. Men wept that night, so much was Jumbo beloved; and Pete, the elephant's trainer, was so overcome that he ran wildly around the railroad yards calling upon someone to shoot him. So deeply can man attach himself to an animal."

It may—or may not—be a commentary upon our sense of humor that Broadway's two outstanding stars of comedians at the moment are Abbott and Costello, and Olsen and Johnson, both teams depending for laughs on low, mad comedy. Audience reactions I suppose, go in cycles. Smooth, suave comedians have their day, then come the custard-pie-in-your-eye gents. There must be a reason. My own thought on the matter is that when a people is jittery, it demands broad comedy. A nation enjoys the niceties of polished comedy only when its mind and its heart is at peace.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

AT THE HOT-DOG STAND

At the hot-dog stand
He held her hand,
And really the whole surprise
Was born right there
In the evening air,
As he looked into her eyes!

On the tall white stools,
They broke all rules
For a restaurant like this;
For she said "Yes,"
And their happiness
Was scaled with a sudden kiss!

When they came back home,
We asked: "How come?"
For we saw them hand in hand!
That brand-new ring
Was a funny thing
To get at a hot-dog stand!

A Bystander In Washington

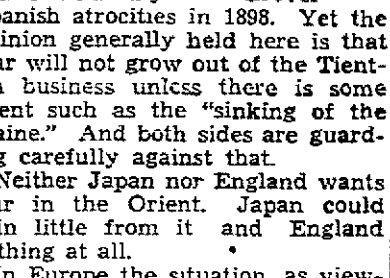

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Even while the headlines played on Tientsin and the diplomatic strip tease, State Department observers watched Danzig. It has been the real trouble spot.

Japanese sentries stripping men and women of the British colony in Tientsin stir up the kind of hatreds that were aroused in America by Spanish atrocities in 1898. Yet the opinion generally held here is that war will not grow out of the Tientsin business unless there is some event such as the "sinking of the Maine." And both sides are guarding carefully against that.

Neither Japan nor England wants war in the Orient. Japan could gain little from it and England nothing at all.

In Europe the situation, as viewed here, has held ten times as much danger of real trouble, all along. A competent source tells us that advice from inside Germany supported the occasional stories indicating that the Hitler regime is again confronted by serious internal difficulties. Each time a "crisis" came up in the past an aggressive program was possible that diverted public attention from heavy internal burdens.

Sinister Remedies

There is nothing sinister about these internal difficulties, although the Hitler government on occasion has met them by sinister methods. But the difficulties are the same as confronted here and in other nations in far less degree. Debts grow and armament expenditures mount and the tax revenues are not what they are supposed to be.

Germany is having trouble raising money to finance her continued rearmament and her periodic mobilizations. Siegfried lines are not built for nothing. It is known that Germany already is spending taxes not yet collected. She is simply issuing tax IOU's to continue the expenditure that keeps her factories booming. Floating of government bond issues, so easy here, is far from easy in Germany.

As long as there is something which can be presented to the people of Germany to justify expenses, the element of discontent present in every country is inactive. Expansion of Germany to include neighboring German territory always has been a justification and can be again in the case of Danzig.

Need New Stimulant?

The menace of "encirclement" will continue effective for some time as a stimulant to keep German morale high but there is fear both here and abroad that German leaders see the need of even more stimulant by early fall and that seizure of Danzig may be it.

At that point the thing becomes clear as a lens. England has virtually committed herself to fight if Danzig is Nazified. Politically she cannot back away much more. On that basis then, the means of avoiding war is to persuade Germany it will be unwise to move on Danzig.

To help with the persuasion, England has moved forward fleet maneuvers from September to August. Maneuvers for the navy are a mobilization.

England is giving signs of meeting Russian terms for an alliance. And in the United States?

The State Department is pulling every lever to put across the new Bloom neutrality bill which will make Britain's threat even more potent.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

The radio broadcasters are adopting a code down in Atlantic city between swims, and I can't think of any business in greater need of one. They are having their troubles, however, as it is just like asking any other baby what's good for it.

One proposal is to limit the advertising spiel to 9 minutes per hour on afternoon programs and 6 minutes at night. This would seem to be a confession that the afternoon radio audience has more patience. Or else it is an admission that the ballroom boys on the daylight broadcasts have almost as tough a time getting a hearing as the entertainers do.

I don't think the time the advertising takes bothers the audience as much as the tone they take. There ought to be a law to make radio announcers talk as if they were no more certain of themselves than the rest of the human race.

While radio is talking about codes, it ought to put in a rule requiring political orators and all the other "let-me-tell-you-what's-the-matter-with-America" gas-bags to stick to facts. Or to limit their false misleading or wholly cockeyed statements to 50 per cent of the whole.

The big advantage some of these wild men of the air have is that they never think it up to 'em to retract anything.

And how about a code stopping the "stoooge" audiences and the fake applause?

RECIFE WITH A PUNCH

Vancouver, Wash.—(P)—Ninety-year-old Major C. B. Fowler of Vancouver has a new method for achieving longevity. "Use moderation in everything and never let anyone get your goat," the older says. "If they do, just laugh—but if they continue, punch them in the eye."

THE PEACEABLE BULL FIGHTER

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Interesting to behold is the superb confidence of the Progressive party leaders that all that is necessary to return to power is to wait patiently for the next election.

That is a long jump from the state of mind of the LaFollette followers only a few months ago, when they were consistently studied the Republican election figures and wondered whether they would ever be able to march back to their posts in the capitol. Progressives seem to believe that the Hell administration will hang itself without any assistance. That is a habit of parties out of power, always scornful, always certain that the mistakes of the incumbents will work to their advantage.

But Progressives appear to be so sure of the failure of their conquerors that they are doing little or nothing in the way of political activity.

SPECIAL ELECTION

Whether that attitude of mind is correct or not, it is not for this department to say. However, there are persons who believe that the Progressive organization, pretty ragged at some of its edges, could stand some reconstruction.

An example of Progressive confidence in their ability to make a comeback—only eight months after the devastation of the last elections—is their insistence that Heil lose no time in calling a special election to fill the vacancy in the third congressional district caused by the death of Congressman Griswold.

If that election were held tomorrow, say, say Progressives, the issue would be simple—the Heil administration.

What it would not be as clear-cut as that probably—there are some important national matters which have divided public opinion lately—it can be expected that the record of the Republican state administration thus far will be used if the special election is called.

That will be especially likely if Republican legislators are candidates for the Republican nomination in the district, men such as Speaker Thomson and Senate President Edward Roethe.

Such men have records identified closely with the state administration, for better or worse. If the public feels that the Republicans in the capitol have been doing a good job, or have made a good beginning, it will help them in their runs. If public opinion decides otherwise, they will stand to lose votes for their connection with capitol events during the last six months.

FARM DISTRICT

The third district is essentially a rural district, with tobacco and dairying the agricultural staples. If the general conclusion that low dairy prices last fall had something to do with the election returns, is correct Republicans may be hard put to it to explain what they have been doing about it.

Farm legislation of an administration character is about as scarce in this legislative session of any on record. Dairy prices have been little better than at the time of the election, and for a while were lower, particularly in the cheese market.

So the Progressives—who might have been in a mighty uncomfortable boat right now had they won last fall—are feeling pretty sure of themselves. Some of them are so certain of victory in the third district that they are saying that Heil will avoid a showdown by failure to call a special election.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

OPPORTUNITY OF A WASTED LIFETIME

Dear Doctor Brady:

No doubt you have heard of me and my work in the cause of TEMPERANCE. For several years I have been lecturing in all parts of the country.

For the past three years I have had as my constant companion a true and faithful friend, one, (call him Jake the Guzzler), who sat on the platform with me. I would point him out to the audience as a horrible example of the ravages of drink.

Jake originally had a splendid background, was a man of fine education and family connections. But during the years when he should have given thought to the building of his character, he developed an insatiable appetite for strong drink.

There were times when Jake's condition was pitiful. A brilliant man who became a wreck of his former self. He would sit on the platform with me, drooping at the mouth and staring at the audience through blood-shot eyes.

Unfortunately, last autumn poor old Jake passed away.

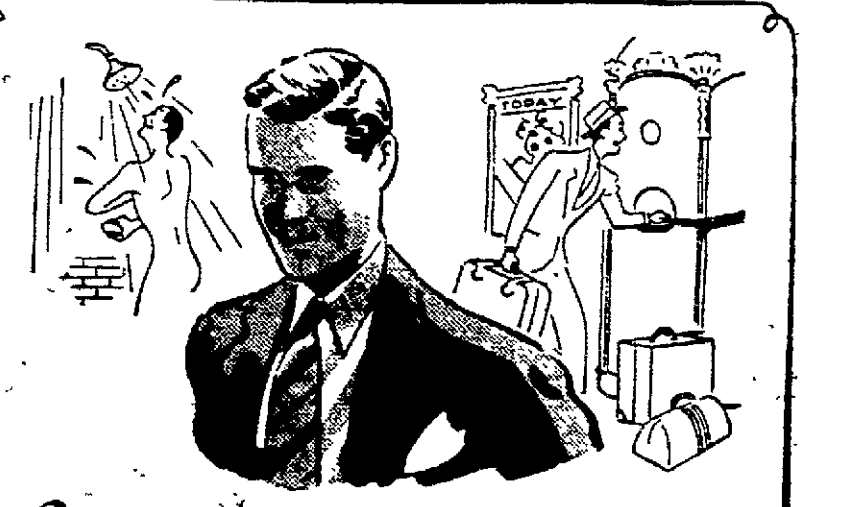

A mutual friend has given me your name and I am wondering if you would consent to accompany me on my approaching lecture tour, to take Jake's place. If this appeals to you, please get in touch with me.

Sincerely yours,

Player Must Learn Art of Self Defense

BY ELY CULBERTSON
In these troubled times perhaps the most valuable lesson bridge has to offer is how to protect oneself. South, in the following deal, was an expert in the art of self-defense. West, dealer.

The bidding:
West North East South
1 spade Pass 1 no trump 2 hearts
2 spades Pass 3 spades Pass
3 spades Pass

North opened his fourth highest heart and South cashed the king and ace. From North's opening lead, and the drop of declarer's queen and jack, South knew that declarer, as well as dummy, was now void of hearts. He knew, also, that it usually is a very bad play to continue a suit that can be ruffed in one hand while the other hand discards, but this, he saw, was an exceptional case. He, South, had four trumps to the king. If dummy were permitted to retain its three trumps, successive leads through South would pick up the king and leave him with only the diamond ace as a trick-taker. From the bidding it was highly unlikely that North had the semblance of a trick, hence if South lost his spade king the game probably would be lost with it.

Thus it was apparent that successful defense hinged solely on the protection of the spade king. On that sound conclusion, South led a third round of hearts.

West deliberated a long time, seeking a plan to offset South's marked intention. He considered ruffing in his own hand, but realized that this would do no good if, as he feared, South had four trumps. It would be necessary to knock out the diamond ace and, on taking the lead, South would lead another heart, either reducing declarer to three trumps or requiring the use of one of dummy's precious trumps.

West finally concluded that he could do no better than ruff the present heart return in dummy, discarding a club from his own hand. He then led the queen and the low trump through South, but the king was too well guarded to be trapped. Eventually declarer had to concede the diamond ace and a spade trick, and the contract was down one.

Dear Mrs. Post: We have two grandchildren—a boy and a girl—both still under five, who come to visit us without their parents. The older one should be taught more about manners and so when she has been answering "no" and "yes" I have tried to make her understand that these answers are impolite unless followed by "ma'am" or "sir." My son, the children's father, was here recently and he brought up this question and said not to teach the children such archaic forms because when they got home the other children just laughed at them, and that "ma'am" and "sir" were no longer in fashion. Is this true?

Answer: Sir is not said by a girl but it is now, as it has always been, in fashion from a boy to a man. In fact the boy says it to his own father and even more especially when he is grown than when he is a little boy. Both children should be taught to answer "yes and no, grandmother" or whatever they call you, or "yes and no, Mrs. Jones" in answer to any lady speaking to them. If they don't know the name they try to add something to "yes." For example: "Yes, I will tell grandfather," or "No, grandmother is not at home," etc. It is the monosyllabic "yes" and "no" that is rude. "Ma'am" is at present used in very few sections of the country—but in those sections it is, of course, proper and should be taught.

Beauty and You

Few skins are of the quality which can flirt with Old Sol without being annoyed first. Judith Barrett takes her sun high on a sea wall.

Most authorities, and beauty specialists seem to put a collective foot down on tanning one's skin to chocolate brown during the summer holidays! Say they: it takes months to recondition skin which has been tanned deeply; your skin can get too dry and too tough to be reconditioned; pores are likely to enlarge under constant exposure to the sun as they relax and stretch, and you clog them with oils and creams so they remain clogged and closed; it is thought that women over twenty-five should not sunbathe their faces deliberately; that eye wrinkles, and forehead wrinkles deepen as the skin is robbed of its natural lubrication by the sun. Of course, most of us agree that a light honey tan can be very attractive, and if you stop there, you will do little damage to your skin. But most of us just jump under the hot sun's rays (especially after a long cold swim) and then is when the damage is done.

There are a great many sun creams and lotions on the market, some of which help you and some of which do not. Many women have learned to eliminate these products through sad experience after having gotten severe burns, so it pays to inquire carefully among friends, as well as salesgirls, as to which will do what they claim they will do for the protection of your skin.

A survey arrived at a few conclusions about sun cosmetics which may help you. Amber lotions with acetic acid bases are usually good if you want to tan and not to burn. Preparations with creamy lotions mask out the harmful rays and are excellent. (One of these gains favor each season and is by now so famous that you probably have used it, or had your wee-offspring use it.)

A sunburn preventative to function efficiently, must somehow interfere with, or prevent, the ultra-violet rays from reaching the dermis. Three types of products, based on three different theories are offered women and men. (1) Those which deflect light or act as mechanical barriers to turn the rays so they will not reach the skin. (2) Materials which convert the character of the rays to render them innocuous, by altering their wave-lengths or partially absorbing them. (3) Preparations which exert an action on the skin itself, perhaps hardening it (like vinegar) to make it less susceptible to the sun's burn. Such products contain tannic acid.

If you wish a list of sun creams and lotions which have proven helpful to some skins, write me a request to this paper. Enclose a self-addressed envelope, bearing a three-cent stamp.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

Here is an excellent child psychology case which should contain some lessons for business men, as well as parents and unmarried women. We adults react much like children except that we are less spontaneous and frank.

CASE N-187: George and Philip are my two oldest sons, aged 9 and 8. For a year they have been wishing they owned a pony. Recently Mrs. Crane drove to her parents in Indiana, and took our youngsters along.

That very week-end, they saw a little classified ad in the local newspaper, listing a pony, harness and wagon at $45 for immediate disposal. They were fascinated by the ad, and read it aloud to her.

Then they argued that this pony was a bargain, for the ad had said she was originally priced at $75. After a lengthy sales talk, they all got into the car, and drove out to the address given in the ad.

The pony, named Queen, was a beauty. Even 4-year-old Judy rode her down the lane and back. The boys literally skipped and hopped with glee. Their eyes shone like stars.

Mrs. Crane and I had discussed this matter earlier with the boys, and agreed to match, dollar for dollar, whatever sum they earned. New Addition To Crane Family

Well, the upshot of it was that we have an eighth member of our family, a sorrel Shetland pony named Queen, aged 6 years.

On the trip back to Chicago the boys gloated and dreamed, but were dubious regarding how I would take the idea, especially since they had to persuade their mother to buy the pony first before they had earned their share of the cost.

I reassured them that I thought it was a pretty good deal; for their sales talk and was so glowing you would have thought we'd bought a gold mine. But I reminded them that they didn't own any pony till they had paid their half, amounting to $22.50. Philip emptied his banks and pockets until he collected a total of $3.00 which he paid on account.

George could total only $132, which he paid. I gave the boys a receipt, and also entered the amounts on our kitchen calendar.

With the pony already in their possession, however, they seemed less interested in working out the balance they owed. This common psychological reaction should be a lesson to girls who give their sweethearts every sexual liberty before the wedding ring stage.

George and Philip planned to go down to visit Queen two weeks later, but I told them they must pay me $2.00 more on account. They agreed, and accompanied me to the office where I let them assemble and staple some of these educational bulletins for which you readers send stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

"How much will you pay us?" they inquired. "Ten cents an hour?"

"Oh, I believe you are pretty speedy workers, so I'll do better than that," I replied. Knowing I must enable them to pay me back pretty soon or they'd get out of the notion.

"I'll pay you 25 cents per hour, but you must buy your own meal," "Goody," Philip exclaimed. "We want to work till 7 o'clock tonight. Then we'll have our $2.00."

Laws Of Child Motivation

They watched the clock like hawks. Promptly on the hour they rushed into my office and demanded their quarter. Each hour thereafter they stopped and came for their pay.

Between times they'd pause for a few minutes to count their mounting wealth. We stopped for lunch. They bought a 15-cent hamburger with French fries, and regretfully passed up pie and ice cream.

Then back to the office for 3 more hours. They were growing tired, and had a balance of $1.10, so we called it a day and came home.

Dr. Crane will give personal attention to questions on psychological problems. Write in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent, enclosing a 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover printing and postage. Letters and readers' names are never published.

Punishing Energetic Child by Standing Him in Corner Unwise

BY ANGELO PATRI

Mickie is four, the only child. His mother has to try to keep him busy to keep him out of mischief and as no grownup person can hope to keep up with the activity of a four-year-old child, her success is not remarkable.

Monday is a busy day in Mickie's house. There is a lot of picking up and dusting after Sunday's relaxation. The newspapers alone are a chore. While his mother was gathering them up and tying the weekly bundle for the waste man, Mickie, who was supposed to help, disappeared.

"Mickie, Mickie, where are you?"

No Mickie appeared so his mother went out to look for him. As she stepped out of the front yard she met one of the neighbors leading Mickie. Mickie was soaking wet and plastered with mud. It was thick on his shoes and ran in streaks down his face and his hands were sticky and grimy. The neighbor looked up at her and said, "Mickie's mother, your man of yours has just broken four bottles of milk, and I don't know how many more belonging to the other people on the block. No, I don't understand either. I don't think he does, but the sad fact remains that he collected the milk as he went and broke the bottles on the gutter. I wish you'd try to keep him home."

That is only one of Mickie's deeds. He was helping mother in the kitchen and poured the contents of the sugar bowl into the sink and turned on the water. He got into the pantry and poured the salad oil on the floor and emptied whatever he could reach into the mess. So it goes day by day until his mother begins to think that perhaps her son is feeble minded.

He isn't. He is highly intelligent and is seeking ways to apply his powers to the life around him. He wants to do something with the world he finds at hand and his technique is bad owing to a lack of experience. If he could find things to do that he could do with joy he would not bother people so much. But what can a small boy of four, very active, very much alive, find for himself to do without getting into trouble? Not much you will agree.

Punishing such a child by making him sit still, by tying him in the yard, putting him to bed, setting him in a corner, is bad for what ails him. He needs to use the energy he has instead of damming it up. The more he is confined the more pressure is put on him to get into action. He has to get into action to lift the pressure, the sooner the better. Give him something to do, some hard work that requires energy and he will be much better.

This is not easy for mothers who do their own work, who cannot supply jobs on demand. The nursery school, the neighborhood group, an older child in charge, are good ways out of this predicament. This sort of child needs tools, weapons, big things to work with, and he should work long enough to get thoroughly tired. Punishment won't help at all.

It is not hard to cure your youngster of maddening little ways, if you go at it right. Be guided by Angelo Patri's booklet, "Annoying Habits." Send for it, enclosing ten cents. Address: Angelo Patri, care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Wives, Husbands Often Fail To Show Full Appreciation

BY DOROTHY DIN

The old saying that "one-half of the world does not know how the other half lives" finds its most vivid illustration in the family circle. For, curiously enough, no other two classes, not even millionaires and paupers, seem to have as little comprehension of the other's lot as do husbands and wives.

This brings about endless friction and jealousy between married couples, for each thinks that the other has gotten the soft end of the domestic bargain. The husband pictures his wife leading a life of Sparta, ease, spending her days loitering on a sofa reading a love thriller, or going to the movies, while he toils to support her. And that makes him sore.

While the wife, on her part, sees green as she thinks of her husband going downtown on a morning all dressed up to kill, to have an exciting and pleasurable time swapping risqué stories with good fellows and having a long and delicious luncheon, while she stays at home and slaves over the cook stove and the vacuum cleaner, with no more entertaining conversation than the baby's gaga.

Neither one has any realization or appreciation of the trials and tribulations the other goes through. Hence the endless spats in which the husband tells the wife that he wishes that he could take it easy and stay at home, with nothing to do but to keep house and take care of the children as she does. And the wife retorts that goodness knows, she doesn't know why he is always complaining of being so tired at night when he has nothing to do but to go down to his office.

They are like the young woman who writes the following letter. She says: "My neighbors think it is very cruel of me not to go to work 7 o'clock to get my husband's breakfast, when he is perfectly capable of getting it himself. I see no reason why a woman should get up and cook her husband's breakfast, because a man has only to sit comfortably behind a desk all day, while a woman, once she does arise, must stay on her feet until she gets to bed again at night. For that reason I think it only fair that my husband bring my coffee to me on a tray."

No doubt there are many other selfish and lazy wives like this one who justify themselves in turning over and taking another snooze instead of getting up and getting their husbands a good breakfast by kidding themselves into thinking that their husbands are going downtown to play while they have to stay at home and do the housework.

And it makes me wish that there was some good fairy who could wave a magic wand and for a day put husbands and wives in each other's places and let each see how heavy is the burden the other bears.

Suppose the husband had to arise in the morning, cook the breakfast, fix the baby's bottle, get the other children up and washed and dressed and combed and ready for school, clean the house, do the washing and cooking and mending, settle the fights between the youngsters, do the marketing and a million other tasks. Would he think that she was a whiner when she complained of being tired at night? Or would he marvel at her strength in accomplishing a day's labor that would have sent him to the hospital with nervous prostration?

And suppose a wife could step into her husband's shoes for a day and, as she rode down to her office, read in the morning paper some dispatch that would mean the wreck of plans she had spent months of hard work formulating. Suppose she had to wrestle all day with the incompetent employees or a bullying boss. Suppose she had a note to meet at the bank and her heart turned to ice when she thought of the difficulty of getting it renewed. Suppose she saw her whole life work going to smash and was crazed with anxiety about the future of her wife and children. After such a day, when she went home worn and nerve-racked to the last degree, would she think her husband unreasonable because he didn't want to take her out to a night club? Or would she regard him as a martyr and prostrate herself before him?

A fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind. And if husbands and wives only knew how the other half lives they would show each other more patience, tenderness and understanding than they do.

DEAR DOROTHY DIN—I am a man 28 years old and have so far been unable to find the girl of my dreams. I do not use tobacco or

The Home Gardener

By Edwin H. Perkins

Sometimes it is necessary to use a ground cover of shrubby plants or low-growing vines beneath tall shrubs and trees to prevent soil from washing away. Even a mulch of peat moss, which has been recommended so many times in these columns, would not prove satisfactory in such a case because the mulch itself would wash away and uncover the roots of the shrubs or trees with the result that death may prematurely overtake the plants.

Among the trailing vines suitable for this purpose are the winter creeper of the big leaf variety and the evergreen form of bitter-sweet. Both are relatively hardy in any section of the United States.

First choice among ground covers, however, must go to periwinkle, which, while growing best in heavy shade, is also excellent in locations partially bathed in sunshine. While a trifle more expensive than any of the plants mentioned, the Japanese spurge is undoubtedly the ideal. When planted three to four inches apart, it makes a heavy growth which withstands the ravages of winds. It is interesting to notice how weeds growing among Japanese spurge are eventually killed by the heavy shade cast by this interesting plant. Any of the ground covers mentioned forestalls the need for mulches around tall shrubs and established trees.

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

Yesterday: Despite the fact that Tacks North is the most beautiful girl in the world, she has a heart of steel. She refuses to believe Tacks's story that he saw her on the street, and fell for her the previous Sunday. Tacks happened to be out of town for the weekend.

Chapter Six
Miss Dorothy South

THE terrace of the Penguin Club was deserted of all save Gus, the bartender, when Tacks returned. He entered Gus's domain with heavy tread and downcast eyes. In truth, Mr. Adams was not feeling so well. He was experiencing the same sensation that he had several years previously when, in the Yale-Harvard tussle, a beautiful forward pass had fallen into his arms behind the crimson goal-line and he had subsequently let it slip through his fingers. That had been a decidedly unpleasant feeling. But it was no worse than the one which afflicted him now. Mr. Tacks Adams had made a sorry mess of it.

Of course, it wouldn't have been important had not Miss Patricia North been so like—well, like Miss Patricia North. Resting his elbows on the bar, Tacks gazed vacantly into space and marveled upon the shifting tides of Life. An hour earlier he had set forth upon his mission, whole of heart and fancy-free. He would have been prepared to bet real money that he would return in the same condition. And had he? He had not.

On the way back from Packer's apartment he had had the feeling as of one who walks in chains. Now, with the sound of the slamming door only just beginning to quit her sensibilities, he was perceiving why. He was in love, that was all suddenly, desperately in love.

Gus cut in upon these dark musings.

"What's the matter with you, guy?"

"Nothing," said Tacks shortly.

"Gone to see your girl yet?" inquired Jumbo, unwittingly rubbing salt in an open wound.

"No," lied Tacks.

"Ha!" said Van, with sudden penetration. "I'll bet that's what's the matter with him. He probably saw her and she gave him the air. Well, cheer up, Tacks, my boy. Anyhow, you didn't stick your eye out like Jumbo did."

Tacks winced. "What callousness! What brutality!"

"I don't care to discuss my—Miss North with you," he said.

"Okay! Let's sit down and have one. By the way, Bill's out making a pass at the East brothers."

"I wish him luck," said Tacks lustlessly.

Van ordered drinks.

"I know," he said, "that I agreed it was okay for Bill to bring one of these East fellows to this shindig. But I still think he has the softest."

The telephone, jangling behind the bar, interrupted him.

"Bar," said Gus, answering it. "Who's that? Just a minute." He beckoned Tacks. "For you, sir."

To the party on the other end of the wire Tacks spoke for several minutes. And the astute observer would have gathered immediately that the person calling was pleading with Tacks for something. Whatever that something was, it seemed to be highly amusing to Mr. Adams. Despite the leaden weight of oppression his soul a grin spread slowly over his face.

The person at the other end of the wire appeared to yammer.

"Now, now," said Tacks soothingly, "don't get excited. Just take it like a man and we'll be done shortly."

He replaced the receiver, rejoined Van and Jumbo.

"Who was that?" Van demanded sharply.

"Bill," said Tacks, still grinning.

"Well, what did he want?"

"He wants us," said Tacks. "To come around to the Forty-sixth."

So wait until you can find a girl who really feels as you do about things and who sees eye to eye with you about life. A man wants his wife to enthuse over his enthusiasms and enjoy the things that he enjoys and whose tastes give with his. Otherwise marriage is stale, flat and unprofitable to them both.

Nor need you mourn as one without hope. There are plenty of girls who neither smoke nor drink, who never go to see anything but improving movies and who prefer symphony concerts to jazz. And you don't have to do the Diogenes act and go out to search for them with a lantern either. Just ask your mother or your maiden aunt and they can give you the addresses of a dozen nice girls who will just be the thing for you.

I judge your trouble is that it is the gay and frivolous girls who really attract you; it's the ones with the devil in their eyes instead of the uplift look whom you actually prefer, but that you want these to throw away their cigarettes and turn down their glasses and give up dancing to marry you. And so far you haven't been able to reconcile your taste in girls and your principles. That, alas, is one of the common tragedies of life. We always want the things we shouldn't have.

CRISP COLLAR

BY ANNE ADAMS

Be style-right at the office, shopping or "doing the town"—in this jaunty frock, Pattern 4194. How fresh it would look in one of the very smart sheer dark fabrics faced with frosty-white trim! Anne Adams has put soft lines into the bodice, and designed the simple skirt with just enough flare. But the highlight focuses on the flared white collar—its wide, sailor-boy shape makes a lovely picture frame for your face and the bow adds a pert touch. And do make pointed cuffs to match! This stunning frock can be quickly stitched up in the nick of summertime, with the expert Sewing Instructor for help.

Pattern 4194 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 18 requires 34 yards 39 inch fabric and 2 yard contrast and 2 1/2 yards ruffling.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Send your order to Appleton Post-Crescent, Pattern Department, 243 W. 17th St., New York, N. Y.

Mrs. W. A. Daniel of Neenah Wins in Flag Tournament at Riverview Club Ladies' Day

PLANTING her flag 10 feet from the cup on the ninth green, Mrs. W. A. Daniel, Neenah, won the flag tournament played Tuesday at Riverview Country club's weekly ladies' day. Handicaps were added to par for the course, and flags were placed where the allotted number of strokes were used up. Miss Katherine Beals, Neenah, was second in the tournament, placing her flag 20 feet from the cup on the ninth green. Mrs. E. S. Colvin won the free golf lesson offered by Jake Mathews, club professional.

Clergyman Is Honored on His Silver Jubilee

St. John Lutheran congregation of the town of Center and the Fox River Valley conference of the Wisconsin synod celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. Arthur Werner, pastor of the Center church, last night at the church. A special service was held at which the Rev. G. Boettcher, Hortonville, gave the jubilee sermon, stressing the privilege of preaching the gospel of Christ. The Rev. F. Reier, Waukegan, conducted the altar service.

The Rev. Walter Pankow, New London, president of the North Wisconsin district, spoke on "Honoring the Ministry and Not the Man," and Alvin Thiel, treasurer of the Center congregation, gave the greetings of the congregation and church council. Felicitations of the conference were given by Pastor Reier, secretary, and Pastor Werner was presented with gifts from the conference and his congregation. Pastor Werner responded to the greetings, and the service closed with benediction. In addition to the members of the congregation, 22 pastors and families were present.

Women of the congregation served a lunch after the service, and talks were given by the Rev. Erick Schumann, Sawyer; the Rev. Emil Radin, Ellington; the Rev. T. J. Sener and the Rev. E. E. Ziesemer, Appleton. Pastor Reier was toastmaster.

Pastor Werner was ordained in Pewaukee July 13, 1914, and has been in charge of the Center parish since July 4, 1920.

$40,500 Levy for School Purposes At Clintonville

University of Wisconsin Extension Course Is Discussed

Clintonville—Albert Fritz was re-elected director for three years, and Howard Bovee and Frank Manser were re-elected to two-year terms as members of the board of education at the annual school election Monday. Mrs. Meta Folkman also was a candidate as a board member.

At the annual school district meeting Monday evening at the high school auditorium the budget for the 1939-40 term was adopted. It was voted to raise the sum of $40,500 by taxation to operate the school for the ensuing year. Income for operating expenses is also derived from student tuition, federal and state aid.

Superintendent Harley J. Powell explained the extension course being offered by the University of Wisconsin to schools of this size, whereby credits may be earned by the students to apply on any college or university course. It is necessary to guarantee the sum of $2,600 before the university will begin such a course. After consideration of the cost of the extension course to Clintonville providing that enough students enroll to pay the necessary cost. It was thought advisable to set the tuition at $100 for the year, making it necessary to secure 26 students to guarantee the course.

Because of the overcrowded conditions of the third and fourth grades during the last several years, it was voted to hire an additional teacher for a combination grade, made up of third and fourth grade pupils.

Use Masonic Temple
To provide more classroom space, the board of education has made arrangements with the Masonic lodge to use the first floor and the large basement of the Masonic temple for school purposes. It is planned to use the first floor for the kindergarten and the basement for manual training purposes. Under the arrangement, no rent is to be paid for the use of the temple, but the school district is to provide a janitor and pay the cost of heating the building. The Masonic temple is located only a block from the high school and contains all the facilities for school purposes. There is also ample space for a playground at the rear of the building.

The question of providing additional playground space at the high school and grade buildings was discussed. Board members reported that they have been studying the matter for some time and that the adjoining ravine can be purchased from Dr. W. H. Finney. This plot contains approximately four acres, which could be transformed into a playground. It was decided to postpone action on this matter for one year, during which the board of education is to make a more thorough investigation of the project and submit a report of its findings at the 1940 school meeting.

Roy Martin was in charge of the meeting, having been chosen temporary chairman. He reappointed Fred W. Tandy, Lawrence Zechow and S. H. Sanford as the auditing committee.

Members of the school board, having been frequently requested to rent the school bus to other city organizations, asked the sentiment of the voters on this matter. It was decided to confine the use of the bus to school purposes only.

The question of installing a stoker for the heating plant was also discussed, but was left in the hands of the board of education.

$3,500 Levy Voted At Fremont Meet

10 Grades and Free Textbooks Will Be Continued

Fremont—A nine-month term and a levy of $3,500 for the local state graded and junior high school were voted at the annual meeting at the schoolhouse Monday night, attended by about 100 persons. Disbursements last year for teachers' and maintenance expenses of the school were $8,156.38; receipts, $8,401.08.

It was decided to continue the 10 grades and free textbooks and work books to be furnished by the school district with a rental fee of 50 cents per child. The school board will authorize extra money if necessary. Leo Lind was elected clerk for three years, by a margin of three votes, succeeding the late E. A. Schmidt. E. P. Sherburne, treasurer, and A. M. Sader, director, are hold-over officers. School board officers' salaries are unchanged.

Richard Schafer, Ray Looker and Edwin Zuehlke were appointed members of the auditing committee to inspect school officials' books at the end of the year. A. M. Sader presided as chairman at the meeting.

Miss Caroline Zeichert, Fremont, has been hired as a primary teacher.

Fox Valley Industry, Power Built on Rich Historic Past

BY PHEBE JEWELL NICHOLS
(Mrs. ARNOLD F. LOOKER)
Editor's Note: This article is the introduction to a series of columns dealing with historic places in the Fox River valley.

Wisconsin's Fox River Valley today teems with industry, the business cities, the business of farms which thrive and diligence have built upon an historic past rich with the dreams of men. The dreams of the French centuries ago brought them upon this region, dreams of a northwest passage, then of a new France with wealth for the motherland and the carrying of Christianity to the people of the new world. The valley teemed then, with industry, the fur trade, for, while the records have set down Jean Nicolet as the first white man to come to Wisconsin, there is reason to think that many unrecorded adventurers trading with the Indians for furs were acquainted with this valley and with its rivers, the thoroughfare of their business long before that time. With almost no exceptions, the cities of the Fox valley are built where Indian villages once flourished and villages in themselves meant industry, for the Indians who lived in them carried on trade with distant Indian tribes before the age of discovery.

A map of the Great Lakes region reveals the waterways used by the French explorers on their westward journeys. Those who came to the Valley from the north used Mackinac, there at the junction of Lake Huron with Lake Michigan, as the entrepot. followed the northwest shore line of Lake Michigan into Green Bay and coming to the mouth of a river at the bay's southern end, ventured into a new country which presented a view exciting the dreams of even the most zealous and intrepid.

Early Beauty
But in that early day this valley had no recorded name. Father Louis Hennepin in his Description of Louisiana, published in Paris in 1683, refers to it as "another river" saying, "By following the Wisconsin for 60 leagues and portaging to another river which is extraordinarily winding near its source, Green Bay can be reached"—and "the next day (after spending the night at the present Portage) we entered a river so tortuous that after six hours of paddling we were only opposite the place where we had embarked. One of our men, wanting to kill a swan in sight, overturned his canoe; but fortunately he could touch bottom. We passed through four lakes two of which were rather large. The Miami formerly lived on the shores of these lakes. We found Mascoutens, Kickapoo and Foxes, who sow corn for their food. All this country is as beautiful as that of the Illinois. We made a portage at a falls called Cakalin. When we had journeyed about four hundred leagues after leaving the Issati or Nadouessoux (at mouth of the Wisconsin) we finally arrived at Green Bay where we found Frenchmen trading with the Indians contrary to regulations."

Undoubtedly the "four lakes" referred to were Green Lake, Buttes des Morts, Lake Poygan, and Lake Winnebago; and Cakalin is now Kaukauna. A league was about 2.5 miles. The quotation used here is from a new translation by Marion E. Cross and published in 1938 by the University of Minnesota Press for the Minnesota Society of the Colonial Dames of America. From Green Bay to Mackinac is 240 miles and the trip could be made in 4 to 5 days if the weather were fair. One can imagine the possibilities of primitive water travel from Mackinac to New Orleans, from the inland to the seas. The Fox river valley hummed with life in those times, prophetic of the thriving cities and fruitful farm lands of today.

Name Is Logical
Fox Indians were noted in the vicinity of Green Bay as early as 1686, and Johnathan Carver says, "About 80 years ago (this would make it 1686) the Fox river was the residence of the united bands of Outagamie (Foxes) and Saukies." It is logical to find that this river came to bear the name, Fox. The river valley became the battle ground for Indian inter-trial wars which raged up and down the river disseminating the Sauks and Foxes. The Menominees, of a more peaceful habit and nature, as a natural consequence (they) greatly increased in numbers and their more warlike neighbors leaving the country, now too much crowded for Indians—they were left in possession of a large district of the new state of Wisconsin" (Wis. Hist. Co. Vol. 4, p. 243). They had a word for this land and all the rest over which they had ranged since pre-Columbian times. It was Weese-cob-seh, "a good place in which to live." This word may well be the origin of the name Wisconsin. Certainly more could be more appropriate and descriptive of what Wisconsin came to be.

The Fox River Valley saw the French, the British, and the American regimes, witnessed bloodshed, and the final creation over its gracious expanses of the flag of the United States of America. Of most importance to the future of this valley was the Treaty of 1836 with the Menominee Indians by which these Indians turned over about four million acres west and north of Lake Winnebago and Fox river, and a strip of country along Wisconsin river. This cession was consummated at Cedar Point near what is now Kimberly and was called the Treaty of the Cedars. It was made before Governor Henry Dodge and Oshkosh, chief of the Menominees.

To commemorate this treaty a tablet was unveiled at the site of the treaty grounds on May 31, 1931. The Wisconsin Magazine of History has this to say of the event: "The unveiling May 18, of the marker near Appleton at the site of the Treaty of the Cedars wherein was purchased four million acres of land between the Wolf and Menominee rivers was a notable event. Descendants of Chief Oshkosh, who signed the treaty, were present. One of whom unveiled the tablet. Peter La Motte made an address in Menominee which was translated by Frank Gauthier. He said in part: 'Through me the dead chiefs speak— they who sold this land to my white brothers a hundred years ago. For us the river was a path. It was a fine pure path winding through the woods. There were great pine, balsam, hemlock, and spruce along our path and also the smaller poplar and birch. The shadow of these trees fell across our path as we paddled in the river. We knew all its turnings, all its sandbars and waterfalls, the places where the beaver were plentiful, the places where the trout ran, and the places where deer came down to drink. This was our path, and whenever we wished to drink of it, we could do so, for the water was pure and there was no evil anywhere— My white brother bought our path and our woods one hundred years ago, for they saw in our river not a path but a power to be harnessed for work— Our tribe used the river for a path when we traveled and your tribe used to travel for power, for you need not travel. You have arrived. This is the end of the road.'"

In Peter La Motte's speech is the whole story, the past, the present and the future, of the Fox River Valley.

Ancient Pine Trees Are Siamese Twins

Yosemite, Calif.—Two pine trees over 150 years old have fused at the top to constitute Siamese twins of the vegetable world. Emil Ernst, park forester, explains that the lofty tops of the trees touched and friction resulting from wind killed one top. The two then grew together and now are thriving with a common top.

rhinoceros; and ears which could have been sold for tent flaps. No thing of beauty and joy forever, Mr. Coletti. He looked in fact like something which arrives in the wee sma' hours after a bout with lobster a la Newburg and pistachio ice-cream. But if not exactly handsome, Mr. Coletti gave an impression of extreme capability. He was short and squat, with too-long arms and powerful shoulders, built generally along the same lines as a large designed for heavy work around the streets of Venice. He possessed a pair of small heady eyes, light-blue in color, in which leap not the light of human intelligence. These eyes now wondered over the little figure of Miss Dorothy South as he rummaged what he was pleased to call his mind for some suitable rejoinder to her terse statement regarding the contents of his cranium. He succeeded finally in bringing forth a nifty.

"Yeah," he said.
"Imagine you having the crust to hawl me out—ME! Why you big baboon, but for me you'd have been overlooking the Golden Gate from a third-story window in Alcatraz long ago."

Ape Coletti cast about him, found a convenient table and pounded it with hairy fist.
"Lissen," he said, "dat ain't got nuttin' to do wid it. Wot I'm tellin' you is dis: Dey ain't no dame can give me de run-around."

"Well, darling," said Miss South, in dulcet tones, "who's giving you the run-around?"
Mr. Coletti arose and pointed a short accusing finger at Miss South. So might Napoleon have commanded himself when he got the goods on the Empress Josephine. So might great Caesar have charged Cleopatra with being a two-timer. But of these ladies quailed before the awful digit, they were not of the same caliber as Miss South. Miss South merely smoothed her platinum hand with slim left hand and laughed in Mr. Coletti's face.

"Ape," she said, "many's the dumb-bell that's come hot off the lower East Side. But you win the buck-toothed shaving-brush."

"Is dat a wisecrack?" inquired Mr. Coletti, with scorn.

Miss South ignored this.

"Lissen Ape," she said, "do you know who that guy is?"

"It don't make no never mind," Mr. Coletti said. "Next time I catch him parkin' around dis joint, I'm gonna kiss him so hard wid a pair of brass knucks dat he'll come to all covered with daisy roots."

"Is that so?" said Miss South.

"I says dat's so."

Miss South appeared to consider it time to drop this fruitless fencing.

"Sit down Ape," she said. "To begin with, the gentleman that's got you all hot and bothered is none other than Mr. Van Rypper Harkness."

Mr. Coletti looked as if he would like to spit.

"Van Rypper!" he exclaimed disgustedly. "Wot a sissy moniker!"

"Is it?" Miss South inquired sweetly, "any worse than Harold's?"

Mr. Coletti winced. Among the other millstones which had been hung around his rhino neck at birth was the wholly unsuitable name of Harold. Under "Harold" the Pride of the Coletts had been forced to chafe until, having won his spurs in gangland, the more picturesque and acceptable cognomen of "Ape" had been bestowed upon him. But though the horror

Five States See Blazing Meteor

Report Parts Fell in St. Clair River and Lake Erie

Cleveland—(AP)—Residents of five states and southern Canada sought trace today of a huge meteor that blazed a flaming trail visible over an area of several hundred miles.

The streak of light flashed from the zenith to the horizon. Thousands in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Pennsylvania, New York and Ontario saw the phenomenon about 7:45 p. m. C.S.T., Tuesday. Newspaper offices and officials were swamped with phone calls.

Reports varied widely as to the landing place of the meteor. Many witnesses believe it may have come down over Lake Erie. Others thought it fell in lake St. Clair or in Canada.

Some authorities said its final burst of flame may have consumed it before it reached the earth.

The meteor was seen as far east as Rochester, N. Y., as far south as Cincinnati, Ohio, and in central Michigan to the west.

The Rev. Joseph S. Joliat, S. J., in charge of the John Carroll University observatory, said he believed the meteor was seen about 30 miles up in the sky and that it landed west of here. He described a smoky trail on the meteor as ash.

"It is quite likely that a meteor of the brilliance of this one could be seen over a radius of 300 miles," he said.

Michigan and Canadian observers said they heard an accompanying rumbling noise. There were reports of fragments falling in the St. Clair river and in Lake Erie near Toledo, Ohio.

Krueger Services are Held at Sugar Bush
Maple Creek—The funeral of Mrs. Herbert Krueger, 64, was conducted Tuesday from the Grace Lutheran church at Sugar Bush.

Ida Zabel, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zabel, was united in marriage to Herbert Krueger May 1, 1907, and then moved to Maple Creek where she had resided ever since.

Survivors are the widower and one daughter, Pearl; two sisters, Mrs. Henry Kromberg of Sugar Bush, Mrs. Emil Dobberten of Milwaukee, a brother Albert of New London.

She was a member of the Ladies Aid society. The Rev. Immo P. Boettcher conducted the service and burial was made in the family lot at Sugar Bush. Bearers were six nephews—Victor Krueger, Marvin Mantel, Anthony Gauske, Roland Westphal, Roy and Leonard Kromberg.

Jacs Consider Possibility of Fall Trade Event

Committee Is Named to Investigate Promotion Proposal

Neenah—Preliminary plans for sponsoring a fall festival or trade promotion program were made at a picnic meeting of the Neenah Junior Chamber of Commerce last night at Ad Hennig's cottage at Payne's Point.

Elmer H. Radtke, president, appointed the trade promotion committee to investigate the possibilities of sponsoring the proposed fall festival. The committee, which is composed of Herbert Kruse, chairman, Steve Sommers, Harmon McCarthy and F. L. Springer, will report at the next meeting of the chamber.

The organization also decided to incorporate, and the president was instructed to draw up articles of incorporation.

Nearly 30 members of the chamber attended the meeting, and Donald Colburn, who is general chairman of the state Junior Chamber of Commerce picnic and golf tournament, which will be held at Lakeview park and Ridgeway golf club Sunday, Aug. 6, reported on the plans made by the committee.

It also was voted at the meeting to carry out plans for forming an information bureau in Neenah. The purpose of the bureau will be to give data to tourists, visitors and residents in Neenah as to vacation homes, apartments, cottages, fishing locations and other information. Peter Gehrkke is chairman of the committee in charge of forming the bureau.

Kolakowski Tops Falcon Batters

Buz a nowski, Nadolney Rank Second and Third on List

Menasha—F. Kolakowski, hard hitting first baseman and right fielder of the Menasha Falcons, is leading the team in batting with a .324 average compiled in 10 games this season. Kolakowski has collected 12 hits in 37 attempts for his average.

Badger Nadolney, veteran shortstop, and manager Artie Buzanowski are the only other hitters on the team with averages over the .300 mark. Nadolney has 11 hits in 36 attempts for a .305 average while the manager is batting .312.

Although the Falcons have only three .300 hitters, the team average has improved in the last two games, which leave the Falcons undefeated in the second half of the Fox Valley league schedule. Next Sunday the Falcons will play at Neenah in a booster game while on the following Sunday Kimberly, champions of the first half, will come to Menasha for a booster game.

The Falcons now are hitting at a .247 average with 88 hits in 356 attempts. For the first time this year the Menasha team has a better average than that compiled by opponents. Falcon opponents have a .241 average with 82 hits in 340 attempts. Opponents have outscored the Falcons 63 runs to 50.

Richard Sheleski, flyhawk of the Falcon team, has improved his average in the last two games with five hits in 10 attempts. He is batting .267.

2 Gifts Received at Neenah High School

Neenah—Two gifts to Neenah High school were received this week, according to Principal J. H. Holzman.

A picture, "The Landing of the Pilgrims," was given by the senior class. The picture, 27 by 36 inches, is a water color scene of the Pilgrims landing from the Mayflower on Plymouth rock. Dan Schmidt, president of the class, was chairman of the gift committee.

A plaque, donated by the Neenah Kiwanis club, also has been received. The bronze plaque, which is mounted on a mahogany background, is for schoolcraft and the names of the valedictorians and salutatorians for 1938 and 1939 have been engraved on the plaque. For 1938 they were Dorothy Baenke and Walter Sellnow and in 1939 they were Ruth Johnson and Lois Hruska.

Lakeview, Bergstrom, Hardware Win Tilts

Neenah—Lakeview, Bergstrom Papers and Krueger Hardware scored victories in the Senior Softball league last evening. Lakeview defeated City Slickers, 24 to 3, and Bergstrom won from Faust Motors, 19 to 5, while Krueger counted a 6-point victory over the Legion, 6 to 5.

Menasha Library Offers Budget Aid

Books, Chart on Family Expenses Is Feature Of Display

Menasha—Aids for the budget maker are emphasized in a novel display and selection of books at Elisha D. Smith public library. A chart prepared by Miss Ruth Combs, member of the library staff, shows the approximate division of the family dollar into six parts, savings, shelter, clothing, development, food and operating expenses.

Each section of the chart is illustrated with small appropriate figures. Part of the display is an other chart which lists the various items under each of the main sections. Under development education, recreation, health, travel and many other items are grouped.

Also a number of books on budgeting also are placed on the display and a mimeographed list of books and magazine articles pertaining to the subject also is available for library patrons. The list not only names the books but also gives the file number so the patron can find them more easily.

Books suggested on the list include "How to Spend Money; Everybody's Practical Guide to Buying" by Brindze; "Behind the Label: A Guide to Intelligent Buying" by Dana; "Spreading the Family Income" by Dunham; "Everyman's Complete Guide to Home-making" by Harris; "Orchids on Your Budget" or Living Smartly on What You Have" by Hillis; "Controlling Your Personal Finances" by Owens and "Getting and Spending the Professional Standard of Living" by Peickotto.

Mayor of Neenah Urges Boulevard Fight be Dropped

Advocates Friendly Relations in Letter to Menasha Executive

Neenah—Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs, Neenah, today urged Mayor W. H. Jensen, Menasha, "to prevail upon your council to entirely drop the Nicolet boulevard matter at this time, in a communication to the Menasha mayor."

Contending that the "removal of just one-half of the center section of the boulevard would constitute a Twin Cities disgrace," Mayor Kalfahs pointed out that controversies of this kind tend to disturb the friendly relations which should exist between Neenah and Menasha. He said, "In the days to come matters of much greater importance concerning our two splendid communities will appear; these matters can never be met successfully if strained relations exist."

The controversial problem over the removal of the center of Nicolet boulevard from N. Commercial to Third streets has been major legislation before the two councils during the last couple of months.

Fail to Agree
The controversy started when Menasha proposed the removal of 39 feet on the east end to eliminate a hazard. Neenah agreed and also proposed the removal of circles opposite Second, Fourth and Fifth streets. The matter practically was settled when Menasha proposed the elimination of the center of the west end, but Neenah balked, offering a counter proposition of removing 10 feet off the 18-foot terraces on the north and south sides.

At the last meeting of the Menasha council the aldermen voted to remove Menasha's half of the center section, while at the last meeting of the Neenah council, the city fathers said they declined to remove Neenah's half including the east end.

Mayor Kalfahs' letter to Mayor Jensen reads as follows: "I acknowledge receipt of your letter of July 8th advising of the action taken by the Menasha Council at your last council meeting, and it would appear that you are just as insistent on removal of your half of the center section of Nicolet Boulevard as we are in not removing our half."

"It is my personal view that the speaker will talk on the Far East where he had been stationed for more than 30 months."

"It must be a disappointment to you, as it is to me that actions of this kind tend to disturb the friendly relations which should exist between our two cities. In the days to come matters of much greater importance concerning our two splendid communities will appear; these matters can never be met successfully if strained relations exist."

"Because of the present circumstances and existing emotions, I urge you in all sincerity to prevail upon your council to entirely drop the matter at this time."

Neenah's Doty Cabin Becomes Mecca for Tourists in State

Neenah—The large increase in the number of visitors to Neenah's Doty cabin indicates that the historic landmark in Doty park rapidly is becoming a mecca for tourists and historians in this section of the state, according to Harvey Leaman attendant.

More than 1,722 persons from 77 cities in 14 states have visited the cabin, the dwelling of Governor James Duane Doty, already this summer, Leaman reported. He said that the registration this summer is an increase of more than 600 over that of the same period for last summer.

The states from which visitors have come to visit the cabin are Kentucky, Alabama, Illinois, Michigan, New York, Massachusetts, Iowa, Texas, Indiana, Washington, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, California and Wisconsin.

Two valuable possessions of the Doty family have been acquired and placed among the large collection of historical relics in the cabin, Leaman reported.

Authentic Rifle
A rifle, which was used by Doty, Wisconsin's first territorial governor, has been donated to the collection. The rifle is authentic for Doty's name is carved on the handle, as well as the date he used it, 1825. The gun is in poor condition and will have to be rebuilt somewhat. It is a muzzle loader, with cap. The rifle belonged to the late Dr. Orrin Thompson, Neenah.

During the time that Leaman has been in charge of the cabin, he has been tracing the Doty family history, but until this summer he had been unable to complete it because of lack of information. This summer a book, "Doty-Doten," was given to the cabin, and from this book Leaman has obtained the information he needs to complete the history.

Descendants of Governor Doty have visited the cabin this summer. They are Mrs. Edgar Dodge, Milwaukee, and Ivan Doty, Berlin, Wis., cousins to the governor. Mrs. Irwin Esche, Manawa, whose father and mother lived with the Doty family in the cabin while the father was surveying the sites of the city of Neenah and the village of Omro, also visited the cabin. She was accompanied by her husband. Relatives to the late governor by marriage also have visited the cabin.

Norton Williams Is Renamed Head Of School Board

Dr. McCrary Relected Vice President, Velte, Secretary

Neenah—Norton Williams was reelected president of the board of education at a meeting of the 1939-40 school board members following a sine die meeting Tuesday evening in the Neenah high school. Dr. L. J. McCrary was reelected vice-president and Charles Velte was reelected secretary. Other members present were James H. Kimberly, Leo O. Schubart, and John C. Simon. The board changed the date of regular meetings from the first Tuesday to the first Monday of each month and planned for another meeting Monday noon, July 17, at the Valley Inn.

At the sine die session last night, contracts for redecorating the school buildings were authorized with Wolf and Larson receiving the high school interior redecorating job for $1,006.80; William Bohman, the exterior of the Roosevelt school and gymnasium and four toilet rooms at the Lincoln school for $406; Chris Christensen, interior of Roosevelt gymnasium and exterior of Kimberly school and the high school field house, for $412.75.

Hire New Instructors
Miss Marjorie Johnson was named to succeed Miss Ruth Sawyer as home economics instructor at the Neenah high school.

J. C. Simonich resigned as employer member of the board of vocational and adult education and James Ketting was named to succeed him for the term ending Dec. 31, 1940.

The annual report of Miss L. Evelyn Scholl, school nurse, was presented by Superintendent C. F. Hedges and placed on file. Mr. Hedges also read and summarized the annual report of the high school activities financial account which showed total receipts for the year of $7,770.76 as against disbursements of $7,808.09, a $37.33 surplus.

Gives Figures
Receipts from the sale of the Neenah High School Rocket, school yearbook, were $1,192.85, disbursements, $1,039.93 and profit, $152.92. The deficit in wrestling and boxing activities was listed as $128.20 and the deficit in tennis and track activities as $81.89. The profit from the football was reported as $428.75.

'Kept' Tavern Bill Up for Assembly Vote Tomorrow

Substitute for Present Law Introduced by Mark Catlin

Madison—(AP)—A measure prohibiting brewery interests from financially subsidizing tavernkeepers was placed on tomorrow's order of business after the assembly adjourned before reaching a final vote in an overtime session yesterday.

Liquor and beer manufacturers or any of their representatives, under the substitute measure introduced by Mark Catlin (R) of Appleton, would be forbidden to hold any interest in a tavern owner's quarters, fixtures or equipment.

Assemblyman Balzer (D) of West Allis, author of the original measure, said the present law was passed with the intention to forbid such practices, but he claimed many brewers had violated either the spirit or the letter of the law.

"These 'kept' taverns," he said, "will bring prohibition back in the next 10 years. They are fatal to the industry."

Republican leaders Catlin and Peterson of Berlin carried on most of the argument, Peterson claiming the legislature must honor and recognize the validity of contracts between individuals and may not terminate them.

Peterson's substitute, rejected by the house, would have allowed all present contractual relations between tavern owners and manufacturing interests to continue but would have barred formation of any new ones. The Catlin substitute gives the parties until July 1, 1940 to terminate their relations.

Catlin argued that under the set-up of the Peterson version no "divorcement" between the manufacturer and retailer would be effected and that present contracts would continue for years and therefore nullify the bill.

The committee on building and grounds was authorized to disburse $206.83 for the purchase of necessary tools and equipment for Mr. Earl Brien, janitor supervisor. A new electric motor to replace the old one at the Roosevelt school at a cost of $25.42 was purchased.

Hedges Announces Schedule of Coming Public School Term

Neenah — C. F. Hedges, superintendent of schools, today announced the schedules for Neenah public schools. The schedule has been approved by the Neenah board of education.

Schools will open Sept. 5 and they will be closed two days, Nov. 2 and 3, for the annual convention of the Wisconsin Educational Association. Students and teachers will receive a 2-day vacation for Thanksgiving, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1.

Christmas vacation will start Dec. 25 and classes will be resumed Jan. 8, 1940, while spring vacation will begin March 18 and conclude March 25. Classes will not be conducted on Memorial day May 30, and schools will close for summer vacation in 1940 on June 7. The end of the first semester will be Jan. 19, 1940.

Students will spend 37 weeks less six days, including Labor day, Thanksgiving and day after Memorial day, two days for convention and one day for the Northwestern association convention, in school. Classes will be in session 179 days.

Liability insurance premiums on policies insuring teachers against liability for injuries to pupils on automobile trips, suggested that an attorney general's opinion be obtained through the office of the state superintendent of schools.

Bills and salaries amounting to $18,953.78 were allowed. Prior to adjournment, Mr. Williams expressed the appreciation of himself and the board for the services of Mrs. Helen K. Stuart and Dr. J. P. Canavan during their terms of office on the board.

Fireman Burned While Fighting Flames on Farm

Alfred Kratzke Treated at Hospital for Severe Leg Injuries

Clintonville—Damages amounting to about $400 resulted from a garage fire Tuesday afternoon at the Herbert Lichtenberg farm one mile south of Clintonville on County Trunk 1. Mr. Lichtenberg, went to the garage about 1 o'clock to get gasoline for use in his tractor and placed a lighted cigarette some distance from the 50-gallon gasoline tank. The flames ignited, spreading rapidly to the tank and other parts of the building. He succeeded in getting the car out of the garage before it caught fire. The frame building, about 15 by 20 feet in size, also was used as a tool shed and many farm tools and small implements were destroyed in the blaze.

The Clintonville fire department was called and concentrated its efforts on saving the other farm buildings, which were endangered. The roofs of the hay-laden barn, the machine shed, granary and wood-shed caught fire several times from sparks. The loss is covered by insurance.

Alfred Kratzke, a member of the Clintonville fire department, was badly burned about the legs when a small barrel of oil exploded shooting the hot liquid against him and burning his trousers from his body. He was hurried to the Clintonville Community hospital in the police squad car and will remain there for treatment.

Orville Bates, New London, has been released from the local hospital, where he was taken Sunday evening following a motorcycle accident near this city. His companion, Howard Leveaux, New London, who suffered a skull fracture, will remain for a longer period.

North Dakota Turns Down Revenue Plan

Fargo, N. D. —(AP)—North Dakota, with an emphatic "no", rejected at a special election yesterday the proposal of former Governor William Langer that a gross income tax, a state liquor store system and highway revenues be used to pay for monthly old age pensions.

Returns from 839 of 2,260 precincts showed a vote of 59,355 to 14,313 against imposing a gross income tax, 96,536 to 16,674 against establishing a state liquor store system and 97,535 to 15,869 against stopping all highway construction for two years.

Langer, who got the voters to approve the $40 pensions at the 1938 general election, met overwhelming opposition, when, through a referendum he forced a special election on a program to finance the pensions.

Experiment With State Red Clay for Pottery

Madison —(AP)—Experiments on the use of Wisconsin red clay for the manufacture of pottery will be undertaken by the University of Wisconsin art students under a project approved yesterday by the board of regents.

The project was suggested by a Milwaukee firm for which the students will make 4,000 containers. The firm will purchase the containers at 30 cents each. It plans to fill them with Wisconsin cheese and distribute them to patrons next Christmas.

President Clarence A. Dykstra said the experiments might help establish a new industry for the state.

Movie Land Its People and Products

By Jimmie Fidler

Hollywood—Jacsha Heifetz says "They Shall Have Music" is his first and last picture. The great violinist has turned a deaf ear to Sam Goldwyn's offer for a repeat engagement — of a picture that have climbed to brain-dizzing figures. Since money seems not to be the stumbling block, his refusal must be dictated by scorn of the movies as an artistic medium.

Heifetz, I think, is making a mistake which convicts him of the most blamable form of selfishness. Let me use the plot of his own picture as an argument. It concerns a tenement kid who is headed straight for reform school, or worse, when luck puts in his hands a ticket for a Heifetz concert at the Met. He goes — principally to dodge an unfriendly cop — and sits enthralled by the great music. His whole life is changed as a result. Believable? Very — and you'll agree after sitting entranced, in your turn, by the music of Heifetz as it pours from the screen.

Perhaps Jacsha hasn't stopped to consider that there are real-life starlings just like that boy — people of all ages who have never had a chance to hear the greatest music and never will have a chance unless it is brought to them by the one perfect mass-medium, the movies. Has any great artist like Heifetz the moral right to say "no" when he has an opportunity to give his gift with those who are begging for it? Why quibble because motion pictures sometimes sin against art — the things in life to be reserved only for those who can afford dress suits, orchids and a seat at the Metropolitan?

Idol Chatter: There are stars who need hilltop mansions to look down on Hollywood — and then, of course, there's Margaret Sullivan. Isn't it inappropriate that a young lady with such trim lines should be named Massey? Jane Withers reports that since the telephone company gave her Joan Crawford's old number, she has a chance to chat with lots of stars she's never met. Things I never expect to see: Edward Arnold indulging in unnecessary exercise. Maybe she's not color-ful, but if all Hollywood gals were as even tempered as Louise Campbell directors would rate lower insurance premiums. Peas-in-a-pod: Arleen Whelan and Carol Hughes. Bet Gene Autry — singing "Home on the Range" — will be the best Good Will Ambassador we ever sent to England.

There's something downright "human" in the best American sense of the word, in Fred MacMurray's current plight. A couple of years ago, when he acquired his first costly home, he did just what

1,400 Young Men at Military Training Camp

Fort Sheridan, Ill. —(AP)— More than 1,400 young men from Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan assembled at Fort Sheridan today to take the oath of allegiance, one of their first duties during their month's stay at the Citizens' Military Training Camp.

Only 30 were rejected as physically unfit after arrival of the group yesterday.

Brig. Gen. Karl Truesdell, commandant of the camp, said the primary purpose of the camp was the development of qualities of leadership, fair play, and self reliance.

WEDNESDAY'S GAME
Kimberly at Kaukauna (night).
FRIDAY'S GAME
Little Chute at Kimberly (night).

KIMBERLY—Butch Thein's Papermakers of the Valley league will have two tough contests to play this week and in their workout Tuesday evening corrected weak spots found in the one-sided setback last Sunday at Green Bay.

Wednesday evening the Kimberly squad will play the Mellow Breads at Kaukauna while on Friday night the Little Chute Dutchmen come to Kimberly.

Thein's charges, after ten straight victories, got one of the most defeats in years from Green Bay by a score of 14 to 5. It was a close contest until the sixth inning when the Bays leading 5 to 4 after which the Druggs had a last inning rally when 12 men batted and counted nine runs.

May believe that Sunday's defeat was the turning point in the Papermakers and more losses will follow. Papermaker fans, on the other hand, aren't worried as they figure that any team can have a let down.

E. Schuler To Hurl
For Kaukauna it probably will be Eddie Schuler on the mound and in case help is needed there will be his brother Dago or Pat McMahon, a newcomer.

Vander Zanden may start on the mound for the Papermakers but Manager Thein still was undecided Tuesday. Kimberly has an 11 to 0 win over the Bays during the first half when the Papermakers had all victories. Now with two wins and a loss the squad is resting in third place while Kaukauna is right behind with one and one.

Friday's night game with Little Chute is expected to draw a capacity house. The Chutes are in a tie with Menasha for top berth with a perfect standing of two wins. The Papermakers must win both games if they expect to stay among the leaders.

Little Chute won over Appleton last Sunday in a close battle, 5 to 4. Lefty Wildenberg came through with a double in the last of the eighth and O. Bongers did the same to send Wildenberg in with the winning run after the score had been tied up during the sixth frame. The game is expected to start about 8:15.

Blues Turn Tables For 11-5 Victory

Home Runs Play Important Role in Win Over Louisville

Chicago—(P)—A home run attack is usually decisive and impressive but no team can monopolize it.

Louisville's fourth-place Colonels found that out last night. The Colonels cut Kansas City down with home runs Monday night, tying the score with one and winning the game in the 10th inning with another. So last night was the league-leading Blues' turn.

Bud Metheny slapped one in the fifth with nobody on base, but this didn't prevent Louisville from building up a 5 to 2 lead through eight innings. In the ninth Vince DiMaggio found the range for his 32nd homer with two aboard, tying the score. In the 10th the Blues hit everything but home runs, scoring six runs to take an 11 to 5 victory.

Kansas City needed this decision to protect its half game lead over Minneapolis as the Millers got to three Toledo pitchers for 18 hits and an 8 to 2 victory.

Lloyd Brown scattered nine hits to Columbus as St. Paul won, 9 to 7. Indianapolis played a 10-inning 7 to 7 tie with the Cleveland Indians.

Ripper Collins Is Author of Song but—

Los Angeles—(P)—Jimmy (Ripper) Collins, former major league baseball player and current home run king of the Pacific coast league with Los Angeles, tried his hand at songwriting with questionable success.

Collins, once a member of Pepper Martin's noted St. Louis Cardinal Mudcat band, submitted his untitled composition to Kay Kyser, the band leader.

Kyser gave it rapt attention, truthfully advised it might be changed here and there, and added solemnly: "I believe it might be a hit—with Pepper Martin's Mudcats."

Verne Stewart Tops Western Amateur
Oklahoma City—(P)—Verne "Spec" Stewart, of Albuquerque, possessor of a two-under-par 68, led at the halfway mark today in the western amateur golf qualifying trials.

Pushing hard against the leader were three others with 69's, including Gus Moreland, of Peoria, Ill., sharpshooter who walked away with the Western championship in 1932.

Tom Cooley, Kankakee, Ill., Alex Walsh, Rockford, Ill., and Larry Moller, Quincy, Ill., were included in a group which had 73's.

WEEK'S GAMES
Wednesday—Coated versus Wire Works.
Thursday—Kimberly-Clark versus Marathon.

GIL SCHRECK's relief pitching after Sonny Filz had been knocked out of the box in the fourth inning enabled Chair Factory to overcome a 10 to 2 lead and score a 15 to 10 victory over Atlas Mill in an American Industrial league game at Roosevelt school diamond last evening.

"Doc" Gebheim got the same dose of "pitch and duck" tactics as Filz experienced and left the mound in the seventh in favor of Louis Getschow. Filz pitched three innings and to five batters in the fourth, allowing six runs on nine hits, fanning three and walking one. Schreck hurled the last six frames and allowed four runs on five hits, walked two and whiffed four.

Gebheim, taking the mound assignment in the absence of Wally Klein, hurled 6 1-3 innings and gave 14-hits for 10 runs while walking three and fanning one. Getschow finished and was nipped for five runs on four hits while striking out three and passing one.

Eleven errors were chalked up during the game, Atlas taking credit for eight of them. Ritten and Getschow pasted home runs, Schreck tripled while King, Jackels, Lietz, Vander Boom, Mullen, DeYoung, Burmeister and Schreck doubled.

Jimmy Milward Shows On Clintonville Course
Clintonville—Jimmy Milward, state open champ and pro at the Black Hawk Country Club at Madison, made a clean sweep of his two golf exhibitions at the Riverside Golf course here Monday afternoon. The first nine holes Milward and his Madison partner, Pearson, took on Bud Wendlandt from New London and Al Weeman from Shawano. The second round Milward and Pearson fought it out with two of the golfing Greb family, Don and Bent.

The match between Milward-Pearson and Wendlandt-Weeman resulted in a one-point victory for the state champ and his partner. On the second nine, Milward-Pearson team took a two point win over Don Greb and Bent Greb.

Four Ball Teams To Begin League Games Next Week

Recreation Chief Directs Organization of New Circuit

Kaukauna—Four baseball teams have been organized, with league play to begin next week, according to Clifford H. Kemp, summer recreational director. Practice games will be held today, with Tuesday and Thursday mornings set aside for league contests.

Members of the nine are as follows:

Cubs. G. Mathis, T. Brenzel, J. Leifer, D. Carnot, E. Vanderloop, P. Efra, D. Juneau, D. Lappen, L. Miller, T. Giers, D. Ristau, H. Femal, R. Lucassen, G. Baeten, J. Giordana, B. Haass, P. Carnot, D. Be-longea, J. Roberts.

Sox. C. Egan, D. Reichelt, S. Arnoldussen, P. Giordana, B. Ives, D. Kiffe, A. Nael, C. Vanderloop, F. Efra, D. Juneau, D. Lappen, L. Miller, T. Giers, D. Ristau, H. Femal, R. Lucassen, G. Baeten, J. Giordana, B. Haass, P. Carnot, D. Be-longea, J. Roberts.

In intermediate softball league games this week the Cubs defeated Bastians, 13 to 4, with Reichelt and Powers working for the winners and Coon and Heindel the battery for the losers. The South Side Merchants won over Gerz, 5 to 2. G. Mathis pitched and Ristau caught for the Merchants with B. Ives and S. Arnoldussen showing for Gerz. In Midget loop contests the Wolves won two games, beating the Bears, 6 to 4, and the Tigers, 13 to 6.

Eight boys have entered the intermediate division tennis tournament. First round pairings have D. Reichelt vs. J. Reichelt; T. Brenzel vs. D. Kiffe; F. Nack vs. S. Dergus, and J. Vandenberg vs. C. Egan.

In the junior tourney Clarence Van Denzen meets Bill Alger and Jack Winn clashes with Bob Dergus in semi-final matches. Van Denzen defeated Carl Giordana, 6-3, 7-5, and Alger beat Lee Cooper, 6-2, 6-0, while Winn and Dergus won on forfeits.

New League Team Beats Ritz Squad

Goldin Metals Show Power With Victory in First Game

Kaukauna—The Goldin Metals, newly formed softball team taking the place of the Mankosky Coals in the city league, showed they will be a threat for the second half title by moving down the Ritz Tavern team last night, 10 to 2. Manager Abe Goldin has assembled a slugging outfit, and with Bill Kuchelmeister, the league's top hurler last season, the squad will give the Kaukauna Klubs and C.Y.O. a battle. Vic Gerhart and Cliff Kemp have joined the new team from the Klubs, and Toby Kiffe, Goldin and Ralph Johnson continue on from the Coals. In Glen Miller, active in Kaukauna baseball circles, the Metals have a flashy second baseman, with Jack Verbeten and Meinert completing the lineup.

The Metals sewed up last night's contest in the first two innings, scoring five times in the first and four in the second. Kuchelmeister limited the Taverners to 7 hits, allowing one run in the sixth when Leo Weigman singled and counted on Steve Andrejaski's double. Andrejaski struck out eight. Andrejaski worked for the losers and allowed 9 hits. Cliff Kemp collected two triples for the Metals, while Gloudeman had two doubles for the Taverners.

City league play will continue tonight with Kappell Taverns playing the Kaukauna Machine Corporation.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes borborship on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Lions Map Plans for Charter Night Party

Kaukauna—Eighty Lions from Kaukauna, Kimberly, Little Chute and Wrightstown clubs met at LaFollette park last night and discussed plans for the charter night celebration at Rainbow Gardens July 25. A picnic supper followed a softball game. The program at the celebration will consist of dinner, singing, floor show and dancing. The Kaukauna club will celebrate its third anniversary, with the other newly formed organizations receiving their charters.

Brews Will Meet Ethiopian Clowns In Special Game

Valley Leaguers to Play Colored Nine Under Lights Tuesday

Kaukauna—The Ethiopian Clowns, famous colored baseball team, will show in Kaukauna Tuesday evening against the Mellow Brews of the Fox Valley league. It was announced this morning, Eddie Stumpf, a former Kaukauna catcher, is booking agent for the Clowns, who in addition to knowing their baseball have a bag of entertainment and tricks. The attraction is the second which has been slated for the local park this season, with the Piney Woods contest last week rained out.

Tonight, however, the Brews will devote all their energy to handling the Kimberly Papermakers, losers of only one league game all year. The contest is slated for 8:15 at the ball park.

After a snappy batting and fielding session last night Manager Joey Vils announced the lineup for tonight. A last minute switch will see Marvin "Dago" Schuler toiling in the mound in place of his brother, Eddie. Dago's last start against the invaders, at Kimberly two weeks ago, showed he could handle the Papermaker sluggers, and tonight he gets another chance. Dago entered the Kimberly game when it was half over, and after the Kaws were hopelessly beaten, the final count being 11 to 0.

Schuler in Outfield
Carl Schuler, Ves Kappell and Vils will be in the outfield. Schuler has played shortstop most of the season but showed against Green Bay on the Fourth that he can also handle an outfield post. In the infield will be Ralph Wurdinger, Icky Van Drasek, Joey Gertz and Bob Van Drasek, with Junior Martens catching.

Art Hoffkins is expected to be the starting Kimberly pitcher. The visitors will show N. Wildenberg, Rooyakkers and Kobs in the outfield, Bowman on first, Peotter on second, Horn at shortstop and Vander Heiden at third. J. Wildenberg will handle the catching duties.

Women on Journey to Ontario and New York

Kaukauna—Mrs. Alma Birmingham, Miss Nora Nitz, Kaukauna, and Mrs. Katherine Aumann, Manitowoc, have left for Waterloo, Ontario, to visit with relatives. The group also will go to Collander to see the Dionne quintuplets, and to the New York world's fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Kitto and family, Bosobel, have returned home after visiting here with Mr. and Mrs. Owen Kitto and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adams.

Among Kaukauna youths who left for cherry camp this week were Bernard Busse, Paul Green, Kenneth Busse, Jim Sanders, Bob Dergus and Bill Alger.

Camping at Shawano lake this week are Doris Damro, Alice Gerz, Eunice Luebke, Dorothy Zink, Arlene Van Gompel and Lorraine Trueman.

Board Seeks Prices On Paving Materials

Kaukauna—The board of public works will receive bids for materials to be used in the city's paving project, up to 7 o'clock Thursday evening, July 20. Wanted are 250 yards of washed concrete sand and 870 barrels of Portland cement. The board has been given authority to purchase a cement mixer for $300.

Be A Careful Driver

APPEAR IN 'SECOND FIDDLE'

Irving Berlin's new songs, Sonja Henie's sunny brilliance, Tyrone Power's gay romancing, Rudy Vallee's singing and Edna May Oliver's show is making "Second Fiddle" the sensation of the preview critics. It's something new in screen entertainment, this film which will open at the Rio Theater on Friday, and it's filled with romance, dazzling spectacle, fresh comedy, six new Berlin songs and surprises galore, including sensational tangos on ice, snow rumbas, ice ballets, and the new "Second Fiddle" introduces, also, new-star Mary Healy, lovely young actress, Lyle Talbot and Alan Dinehart.

On the same program is "Mr. Moto Takes a Vacation," the latest and weirdest adventures of the strange oriental sleuth, Mr. Moto, portrayed by Peter Lorre. Joseph Schildkraut, Lionel Atwill, and Virginia Field have important roles.

Five Kaukauna Residents to Attend Convention of W.B.A.

Kaukauna—Five Kaukauna residents will leave Saturday to attend the national convention of Woman's Benefit Association in New York. They are Mrs. William Blake, Mrs. A. D. Godfrey, Mrs. Marion Licht, Jack Blake and Bina Hahnemann. The delegation will stop at Port Huron, Mich., Detroit, Niagara Falls and Albany, returning by way of Atlantic City and Washington, D. C. They will return July 25.

St. Mary's court No. 118, Catholic Order of Foresters, will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the church hall. Routine business will be transacted.

Another event in the summer program of Holy Cross C.Y.O. will take place tonight as a scavenger hunt and potato bake is held, with Robert Promer, Mildred Noie and Mildred Benoit in charge. The group will meet at 7:30 at the church hall, and go to High Cliff park for the potato bake.

Mrs. Albert Haefs entertained friends at bridge last night at her Lake street home. Prizes were won by Mrs. Strand, Appleton, and Mrs. William Sorenson, Kaukauna. Mrs. Strand will entertain the group July 25.

Lady Conductors held their annual picnic Sunday at LaFollette park, with 32 attending. Games and cards were played and supper served. From Kaukauna were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wandell, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Perry, Mrs. Frank Schmidt and Mary Schmidt.

Lutheran Picnic at Dundas Is Attended By Sherwood Group

Sherwood—Many local people attended the annual St. John Lutheran church picnic which was held Sunday afternoon and evening on the parish grounds at Dundas. Music was furnished by the Sherwood Wide-A-Wake 4-H club band. The picnic was well attended and dinner and supper was served in cafeteria style.

Considerable remodeling is being done by C. M. and St. P. employees at the local station. New hardwood floors are being laid and a roof will be put on the building. A new loading platform for freight was built during the last week. The station also is being raised and old timbers are being replaced.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eckes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mertens and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Westgar attended a surprise birthday party which was given in honor of Clarence Plueger on Sunday evening at his home at Brillion.

Hoolihan Calls General Session To Discuss Note

A n n o u n c e s Taxpayers' Meeting for July 19 At Auditorium

Kaukauna—A taxpayers' meeting to discuss enforcing payment of the $4,000 Moloch Machine and Foundry company's note will be held Wednesday evening, July 19, in the civic auditorium, according to Arthur Hoolihan. Hoolihan appeared before the common council July 5, and told aldermen that that evening was their last chance to reconsider previous action cancelling endorsements on the note. The council refused to take immediate action, by a vote of 7 to 3 referring the matter to the city attorney.

Emmet Rohan, local attorney, wrote letters to the aldermen, in which he said that if no action was taken at that time they would be made "a party defendant in a taxpayers' suit." Hoolihan spoke for Rohan at the meeting, as the lawyer was unable to be present.

Rohan and himself consulted outside attorneys this week and have become more convinced that the cancellation of the note was illegal. Hoolihan said, adding they were informed that the city had no right to even set up such a fund for commercial and industrial development, regardless of approval by a referendum. There are several remedies available. Hoolihan said further, all of which will be discussed at the meeting.

Depends on Funds
Legal action also depends upon subscription of funds, according to Hoolihan. Before the council July 5 Hoolihan said the group he represented was short of money, but that "we could go out and pick up $200 from the business men of Kaukauna in a very short time."

Cancellation of the note was brought before the council June 6. Action was postponed until June 20, and at that time the endorsements were cancelled.

Alderman T. E. Seggelink, finance committee chairman, said at the latter meeting that he originally had been against cancellation, but had changed his mind, reading a long statement telling why he had done so, and concluding that "we cannot afford to try to force the repayment of this loan." Only Aldermen Jule Mertes, Otto Ludtke and Oscar Alger disagreed, with the council voting 7 to 3 for cancellation.

Pierre Cooperates to Stop Smoke Nuisances

John A. Pierre, city building inspector, said today he is cooperating with the American Condensing company, John Street, in an attempt to abate a smoke nuisance coming from the stack at the plant. The company has installed a baffie plate in the chimney and suction equipment to take the fly ash out of the smoke, Pierre said. A complaint against the company was filed in city hall last week signed by more than 30 property owners.

A softball game was played between the Hilbert C.Y.O. team and the St. John team Sunday morning at St. John. St. John won the game 9 to 8.

Neither Side in Europe Can Boast Decisive Superiority

Editors Note: Walter Lippmann, who returned yesterday from a trip to Great Britain and France, has written the following special article on the European situation. Mr. Lippmann's regular column will be resumed later.

BY WALTER LIPPMANN
No prediction about Europe is possible at this time because no one knows which coalition is the stronger, because every one realizes that neither side has anything like a decisive superiority. The axis does not now have the power to impose its will. But the alliance does not as yet have the power to compel the axis to renounce its ambitions. The alliance has enough force to make another aggression very dangerous, but not enough force to make aggression so obviously and absolutely dangerous that it cannot be attempted. The situation has reached a point where the axis can probably not make another important conquest without provoking a general war. But it has not reached a point where it is clear that, if he proceeds, Hitler faces the risk of war. But it is not yet clear that he faces also the risk of defeat.

The coalition against him is now too strong to be intimidated. It is not yet strong enough to be invincible. Consequently, the issue of peace and war hangs upon the complex speculation and intuition of one man. There is no predicting the truth about which side is the stronger, nor can we know what Hitler will think is the truth.

This is a mad world. But there is some method in the madness, and it may be said, I think, that if there is a general war in Europe in the near future, it will be the result of a misunderstanding, a miscalculation, or a calculated act of desperation. 1939 is not 1938. Last year Hitler knew at first hand that provided the French guaranty could be canceled because the Czechoslovaks could be made to yield without fighting, he could have what he wanted without the risk of a great war. The British and French were neither able nor willing to risk a war; they lacked arms, allies and conviction; they were internally divided. So their real policy, as Hitler knew from excellent sources, was to soften the Czechs and to make British and French opinion non-resistant.

Poland Is Considered Indispensable Ally
This is not the position today. It is certain, I think, that the British and French look upon Poland, not as a small nation to which they owe a moral obligation, but as an indispensable ally in the protection of their own position in Europe and in the world. Rightly or wrongly, British and French conservatives last year regarded Czechoslovakia as a dangerous commitment. With very few open dissenters, these same conservatives today regard Poland as a military asset of the very first importance.

This view rests on no exaggerated estimate of what the Polish army could do but on the realization that without Poland resisting somewhere in eastern Europe, there can be no eastern front, and therefore, no war. It is possible that Hitler and Mussolini may feel that it is now or never, that the risks of war are less terrifying than the risks of a frustrated peace. It is also possible that they may realize that the territorialization of Europe has already produced such a reaction that in the end several nations may turn from the passive defensive to the offensive.

Nothing, in short, is clear, and it would be very misleading to report that there is anything now in sight, except tension and crisis for the weeks, for the months, that lie ahead.

$5,000 Is Voted for School Purposes at Black Creek Meeting

Black Creek—Schools in this community held their annual meeting Monday evening.

Dr. J. J. Laird was reelected clerk of the Black Creek State graded school and Sanford Barth was appointed a new member of the auditing committee for three years. It was voted to raise $5,000 and to continue with the music course. Willard Last was chairman of the meeting.

Maple Lawn school district members voted to transport their children again the coming year to the Black Creek State graded school by bus. The auditing committee consists of Roy Peotter, George Klammer and William Barth. Mrs. George Barth was chairman of the meeting.

Arnold Stephoni was chairman at Cloverdale school where Albert Thiebold was reelected treasurer. It was voted to raise $700 and repair the interior and also to make repairs on the heating system. The music course was lost in the voting.

80 Student Pilots Are Using Airport

About 80 student pilots are using the airplanes and flying facilities at the Outagamie County airport, according to Elwyn West, manager. An average of two students per week are passing examinations and starting to solo. Ten of those taking lessons in flying have tried their first solo flights. West said. There are 13 planes at the airport, nine of them owned privately.

SERPENT MOUND

Of all the mounds found on this continent, the Great Serpent mound ranks at, or near, the top in public interest. It is located in Adams county, Ohio.

Outline of Ohio's gigantic Serpent mound.

When we measure along its curves, we find that the Great Serpent mound has a length of almost exactly a quarter of a mile. In some parts, the body of the "serpent" is from three to five feet high.

In front of the wide-open jaws of the serpent is an object of oval shape. This object may be meant as an egg which the serpent is about to swallow. The oval is 60 feet wide and 120 feet long, which would make it quite an egg.

We are not certain why the Mound Builders made this mound. It seems to have had nothing to do with burial. Scientists have dug under it in many places, but have not found a single skeleton.

The Mound Builders of this region probably prayed to a serpent god. They may have worked for years to make a giant image of this kind. It is the longest of all mounds which have been found.

Another Ohio mound was made by putting together large chunks of sandstone, and covering them with soil. It is known as the Alligator mound, but perhaps was to be the image of a lizard. Some have supposed it represents an opossum.

Whatever animal it was meant to be, the Alligator mound is nearly 250 feet long, at one side of the body is a stone circle, and this is believed to have been used as an altar.

The Mound Builders knew how to make clay jars and bowls. Hundreds of examples of their pottery have been found in burial mounds. Many of their clay-workers had great skill.

In some mounds, pieces of cloth have been found. It seems these were kept from rotting away because they were pressed against sheets of copper. The thread for the cloth was twisted from the inner bark of trees and shrubs, also from the fibers of swamp milkweed. Mound Builders of Florida and Georgia obtained material for threads called "nolina." The threads were woven together, and thus were made into fairly good cloth.

Delegates Report On Activities at Badger Boys State

New London Youths Re- port at Meeting of Lions Club

New London—New London's four boy delegates to the American Legion Badger Boys' State camp at Delafield were guests of the New London Lions club, sponsors of one of the boys, at dinner at the Elwood hotel Tuesday noon and the boys described their activities at the camp.

Participating in the actual government of a mythical forty-ninth state were Wallace Hammerberg, who served as assemblyman; Calvin Larson, who was an alderman; Maurice Levine, who was appointed a clerk in the supreme court and acted as secretary of a state convention of a national political party; and Howard Mannchen, who debated a criminal case in court as assistant district attorney.

While at the camp Levine and Mannchen attended law school. Hammerberg attended a school for athletic managers and Larson studied civil service.

Later the boys will make formal reports to their sponsors. Levine to the American Legion Norris-Spencer post and auxiliary and the Odd Fellow lodge; Larson to the Women's Civic Improvement league; Mannchen to the board of education and Hammerberg to the Lions club.

The Lions club will dispense with its regular meeting next Tuesday noon in favor of a picnic supper at the cottage of Ralph Hanson on the Cut-Off on the Wolf river.

Plywoods Alone In League Lead

Defeat Borden, 12 to 4, To Keep String of Victories Unbroken

Standings:	W	L
Plywood	7	0
Lutheran 1	4	2
Lutheran 2	4	2
Edisons	4	2
Congregational Men	2	3
Borden	1	5
Methodist Men	0	6

New London—The Plywoods continued undefeated and the Methodist Men without a victory in the Senior Men's Softball league after games at the Washington High school grounds last night. The former set down Borden 12 to 4 and the latter gave up one of their closest decisions to the Edison, 18 to 15.

The Methodists worked M. J. Henz and Arnold Johnson on the mound while the Edisons depended on Scot Hazelburg and Clarence Marks. The Plywoods pitched A. Schultz and Harold Roepke while G. A. Wells and Don Stern toiled for Borden. Sherwood Walker and Maurice Collar umpired the games.

Scheduled for Thursday to break up a 3-way tie for second place are the Lutheran Team 1 against the Edisons and Lutheran Team 2 against the Congregational Team.

Gambles and the K. C. meet in an Industrial league game this evening.

Short School Meeting Conducted at Chilton

Chilton—Electors of the School District No. 1 of the city of Chilton held the annual meeting at the high school on Monday night. The meeting was one of the shortest on record. After the reading of the minutes and the report of the secretary, Luke Rehner, an unanimous vote was cast for Charles Luther for director to succeed Dr. J. J. Minahan. The meeting then was adjourned.

The Smith Oilers whipped the Carnation softball team, 12 to 0, in a seven-inning game at the fairgrounds Monday night.

Nickolas Keuler is the proprietor of the new liquor store which has opened for business on W. Main street next to Louis Schweitzer's tavern.

Members of the Odd Fellows Lodge will hold an ice cream social at their hall, Wednesday evening, July 12.

The Chilton Canning company has started canning operations on the late crop of peas. This also is a small crop like the early one which only took 10 days to can.

Heads of Three New Agencies To Have Cabinet Importance

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—President Roosevelt has revealed to friends that the administrators of the three new agencies set up in his recent reorganization orders will be considered as having cabinet importance. His plan is to have the three new administrators sit with the cabinet, at least once a week. The cabinet meets twice a week.

This means that Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, who is to become administrator of the new federal security agency, will be virtually a member of the Roosevelt cabinet. He will draw $12,000 a year instead of $15,000, and he will rank below official "heads of departments" on the state department protocol list. But in power, and the working mechanism of the government, he and the other two agency heads are to all practical purposes to be cabinet members. They won't notice the difference except on payday and when they climb into tailcoats to go out into society.

Jesse Jones, long chairman of the R.F.C., is head of the new federal lending agency. John M. Carmody, formerly chief of the rural electrification administration, is head of the new federal world agency. Those two, together with Mr. McNutt, are the de facto administrators of the Roosevelt cabinet group.

It is probable that in time the three posts will be formally raised to cabinet rank. They are more important than several of the cabinet posts now, will have larger payrolls, handle more money, and have larger effect upon the public generally.

When Mr. McNutt last week was offered the post as administrator of the federal security agency, one of his friends advised him against taking it. The reason was that it would be a "come-down" for him after having been United States high commissioner to the Philippines.

Mr. McNutt was advised to hold out for a cabinet job. This argument did not prove convincing because there is no cabinet post which has the promotional possibilities of the federal security agency. Since it includes the United States office of education, the CCC, the public health service, the social security board and several other social service agencies, it makes an ideal vehicle through which to approach the public in an ingratiating way.

In the case of Mr. McNutt, the post has a particular advantage in that it gives him a means of trying to overcome the hostility of organized labor which grew out of strike troubles in Indiana when he was governor. He has been regarded by some as an employers' man. Now he becomes the No. 1 administrator of federal social welfare activities.

Has Corner On Domestic Power
The other two administrative posts just created are likewise of very large importance in the federal scheme of things.

The federal works agency, for instance, combines both WPA and PWA. It includes also the United States bureau of public roads, the public buildings branch of the treasury department, most of the buildings branch of the national park service, and the United States housing authority.

Secretary Hopkins was powerful as head of WPA, and Secretary Ickes as head of PWA, how much more so is Mr. Carmody who now combines both agencies plus a good deal more. Chairman Jones of the RFC now spreads out by having added to his jurisdiction as administrator of the new federal loan agency, the electric home and farm authority, the disaster loan corporation, the federal housing administration, the home owners loan corporation, the home loan bank board and several other agencies.

All the power of these three men together—McNutt, Jones and Carmody—and you have something that about offsets in domestic importance the whole cabinet. Their activities will reach out into so many directions that Mr. Roosevelt must make them an integral part of his executive family. Although congress did not give these men cabinet rank, it is almost imperative that, for administrative purposes, they be considered in substance, if not in form, part of the cabinet.
